

Soviet Bombs 'Clean'

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — There has been no radioactive fallout from Canada from current Russian nuclear tests on anything like the scale of last fall, officials said Thursday.

This has led to some speculation here that the Soviet Union has developed a "clean" bomb—that is, one from which there is little or no radioactive fallout.

ENORMOUS YIELD

It is known that the Russian nuclear tests last fall were "cleaner" than previous Soviet tests. In the words of the scientists, there was 80 per cent cleanliness compared with 50 to 60 per cent cleanliness in Soviet tests which preceded the Russian-broken moratorium of 1958-61.

The 80-per-cent cleanliness was on a total enormous yield of about 120 megatons, equivalent to 120,000,000 tons of TNT. In approximately 50 atmospheric tests.

CAUSE OUTCRY

The 20-per-cent dirtiness caused an outcry around the world, and Canada lodged two strong protests in the United Nations.

There have been eight known Soviet tests in the latest series but, officials said, there has been no marked increase in the level of short-lived radiation as there was last year, when the government kept the Canadian public posted almost day by day on the radiation count.

Neither has there been, officials said, any evidence of a rise in the radioactive iodine-131 count in fluid milk as has occurred in the United States mid-west.

Islanders to Learn If Tristan Livable

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — Twelve Tristan da Cunha islanders left South Africa Thursday to see if their people can again inhabit their lonely Atlantic home after 10 months absence.

The tiny community of 260 had to evacuate Tristan da Cunha, 1,750 miles west of Cape Town, last October when volcanic eruptions shook the island.

land. Since then, they have been living in Britain—most of them longing to go back.

The party's leader, Thomas Glasco, said: "It will be a great day when we set foot back on Tristan. We will have to start at the beginning, clearing houses, planting potatoes and getting the cattle in—if we find the island suitable."

Seaplane Hits Fishing Boat Seven Saved

CAMPBELL RIVER —

One man was hospitalized and six people were dumped into the icy water at the mouth of the Campbell River last night as a seaplane eased down for a landing and crashed into a small fishing boat.

In satisfactory condition in hospital here is George Woodworth, about 45, owner of the fishing boat. He suffered extensive leg cuts.

Witnesses said Mr. Woodworth and his three sons—Everett, Douglas and David—were on board the small craft as it chugged directly into the landing path of the airplane.

PILOT OF PLANE

Pilot of the Island Air Lines plane was John McNeill, Campbell River. His passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ragner of Seattle.

Impact of the crash caused only moderate damage to the boat, but the aircraft's floats were ripped off and the three on board were able to free themselves only seconds before the crippled machine sank in shallow water.

All three of Mr. Woodworth's sons were pitched into the water by the force of the collision.

The mishap occurred just at dusk.

BCMP are investigating.

Five Killed Four Live In Crash

SELDovia, Alaska (AP) — Five men were killed and four injured critically in the crash of a twin-engine amphibian Thursday near this Kenai Peninsula town.

The dead were among eight cannery workers being flown to Homer for connecting flights to Seattle.

The pilot was identified as William C. Decraft of Homer. He survived the crash along with Tore Hoven, 18; Bob Olson, 18; and Florence Lamuge, about 48, of Hawaii.

PORT OF SPAIN (AP)—The Isle of Trinidad, land of calypso, and its satellite inlet of Tobago, together became an independent country within the Commonwealth today.

Canadians Serve UN In Guinea

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will contribute a senior air adviser and two amphibious HCAP Otter planes with air and ground crews to the United Nations temporary administration in West New Guinea. It was announced Thursday.

External Affairs Minister Green and Defence Minister Harcourt said in a joint statement that the Canadian government has accepted the UN's request for these personnel, to be attached to the UN headquarters in West New Guinea.

Representing Canada at the celebrations was Fisheries Minister J. Angus MacLean.

After 165 years of British colonial rule, independence came at midnight for the singing and dancing islanders.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev made a bid for friendship with Trinidad hours before the midnight hour by announcing through his official news agency Tass the Soviet Union's recognition of Trinidad's independence and readiness to establish diplomatic relations.

Queen Elizabeth was represented by her aunt Mary, the 65-year-old Princess Royal, and to her 22,000 school children sang calypso-style songs in an independence eve ceremony.

Towboat Strike Threat to Island

By ED COSGROVE

Threat of a coast-wide towboat strike which would idle more than 250 Victoria towboatmen and partially isolate Vancouver Island loomed today.

The first strike in the B.C. towboat industry in 31 years, its effect on Vancouver Island's economy would be serious.

Movement of deep-sea ships from port to port, berthing and the off-shore loading of lumber would be virtually at a standstill.

LOGGING CRIPPLED

Logging, construction and barge shipment of raw materials to and from Vancouver Island would also be crippled.

Main Island ports that would be affected by the strike would be Victoria, Nanaimo, Chemainus and Port Alberni, while similar tie-up would occur at Vancouver and New Westminster on the mainland.

Traffic of railway cars to the Island would be cut as much as 30 per cent.

SEPT. 10 SET

Sept. 10 has been set as the strike deadline by the Marine Engineers' Union and the Seamen, Cooks and Deckhands' Union, following rejection of a conciliation board report.

The two unions voted more than 85 per cent in favor of rejecting the report, which recommended a six-per-cent wage boost over three years. The unions are seeking a 10-per-cent wage hike over a two-year contract, plus job security benefits.

300 MEMBERS

The engineers' union has 300 members, 43 of them employed by Island Tug and Barge at Victoria.

Vote to Pick De Gaulle's Successor

PARIS (Reuters) — A referendum on the question of a successor to President de Gaulle will be held at the end of October, a government spokesman disclosed Thursday night.

He said the French people will be asked to agree to an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of the next president by universal suffrage.

The referendum was seen here as a move by de Gaulle to guard France against extremist attempts to seize power in the event of his assassination.

Wet Bet Winds Up With Man in Drink

QUESNEL (CP)—A man made a bet with drinking pals that he could walk the narrow rail on the Quesnel bridge.

He lost the wager, fell 50 feet into the Fraser River and broke his ankle. Bystanders pulled him out of the water.

Kenneth Baker of Quesnel was later charged with intoxication.

Algerian Forces March on Capital

ALGIERS (AP) — Regular Algerian army forces with Soviet and Chinese weapons rolled toward Algiers Thursday night under orders of Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella to subdue mutinous guerrillas controlling the capital.

Telephone reports received here said dust-covered columns of trucks pulling cannon were moving along three national highways.

Shortly afterward all wire communications between western and central Algeria were cut off.

HEAVY COLUMNS

Before the communication blackout, European settlers reported seeing heavy columns passing Chamon and Vialar and Bourbaki after nightfall. Both areas are about 150 miles from Algiers.

The soldiers' commander, Col. Houari Boumedienne, was under orders of Ben Bella's political bureau for loyalist troops to re-establish order in the capital.

CALL THEM FASCIST

Guerrilla troops of the wilaya military zones 3 and 4 called on the population to resist Ben Bella's move for power which they called a Fascist dictatorship.

But despite heated appeals, at dusk, no visible efforts had been made to defend the capital.

French military sources said they doubted a major clash was imminent.

Earlier both sides issued communiques that sounded as though civil war was near.

Algerian officials assured foreign diplomats that "everything will blow over."

'Fire One,' Says Judge

Case Blows Up In Wastebasket

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Dewey Jones, 25, a machinist, was on trial Thursday for illegal possession of firecrackers.

The firecrackers were offered in evidence.

"I assume counsel will stipulate these are explosive," said the deputy district attorney, Gerald Regan.

But the defense lawyer, Tom Turner, refused. Municipal Judge William Christensen ruled one firecracker should be shot off. Placing it in a wastebasket Regan lit the fuse and stepped back. Nothing happened.

Regan shrugged and said, "well, your honor, I guess we'll have to dismiss..."

BANG!

When the smoke cleared, the jurors retired and half an hour later brought in a guilty verdict.

"What took you so long?" the judge asked.

He fined Jones $50.

Polio Vaccines Prove Worth

With the first half of the annual peak polio season now past, provincial health officials report only one case of the paralytic form of the disease in B.C. in 1962, and they say the balance of the year "looks promising."

Deputy health minister Dr. J. A. Taylor said yesterday about half of the province has been offered double immunization—Salk and Sabin vaccines—while the remaining half consisting of Vancouver Island and the lower mainland will be offered free Sabin doses in October.

He said the largest part of British Columbia's population has received Salk immunization but only the interior and the northern part of the province has received the newer Sabin oral vaccine.

Dr. Taylor said most of the Sabin vaccine clinics will be set up in provincial health units and at schools.

The oral vaccine, he added, is purported to offer more lasting protection than Salk injections, and he urged everybody—including those who have been Salk immunized—to obtain Sabin immunization.

Within a short time, the deputy minister predicted, Salk vaccine will be used in B.C. only for primary immunization of infants. He said it can be safely administered to the newborn after six weeks while the Sabin oral immunization is not usually administered before three months.

He said there were seven cases of paralytic polio in the province last year and all had been diagnosed prior to Aug. 30. But he pointed out both August and September are considered the polio peak months.

Cat Remains First Clue In Mystery

The skin of a cat found by a dog yesterday provided the first clue to the mysterious disappearance of nearly two dozen cats from the Greater Victoria area in the past month.

Cats indicated the eyes had been removed from the part-Persian grey tabby. The throat had been slit and an incision made from the throat to the stomach through which all the intestines had been removed.

"SOMETHING WRONG"

"There is no doubt someone is mutilating cats. He is certainly a sadist and there's something wrong with him mentally," said Mrs. Helen Kerswell, a spokesman of the Cats' Protection League.

"If the public sees anything suspicious, they should report it to the police even if it turns out to be nothing," she said. The league has offered a $75 reward for information concerning the fate of the cats.

DEVELOPMENTS

Latest developments which may be linked to the catnappings:

● A man calling cats in the 1600 block Richmond at 3:30 a.m. Tuesday ran up the street when a woman came out to investigate.

● Two youths jumped into a car and sped through a stop sign after being interrupted while apparently approaching several cats in a yard near the Oak Bay-city boundary.

Body of the mutilated cat found by a dog and carried to the dog's owner on Stannard Avenue, was disposed of in a city garbage collection before SPCA officials had a chance to look at it, said Mrs. Kerswell.

WHAT NEXT?

"It's a very serious thing that someone in the community is doing this. What will he do next?"

The butcher's workshop apparently is "under cover" in some basement, shed or garage, and "he must get some sort of thrill out of inflicting suffering," she said.

Your Good Health

It's Unthinkable in This Age Not to Correct Cleft Palate

By JOSEPH MOISER, MD

Dear Dr. Moiser: I have a 10-month-old baby with a cleft palate. I have been told this deficiency may be completely corrected by plastic surgery.

J. R. D.

It is unthinkable not to have such a defect corrected, since the techniques have now been so perfectly worked out. Depending on the extent of the original defect, it may be repaired so completely that it cannot be detected in later life, or there may be only modest signs of the work afterward.

The correction has even been done on adults, although by that time it is no longer possible to achieve such complete repair as when it is done early in life. And besides there is no reason to force the youngster to go through childhood with impaired speech and often considerable difficulty in eating.

There are hundreds of highly trained plastic surgeons, certified through all of our large and medium-size cities. People living in smaller communities will, of course, go to one of the cities for such surgery.

You want, if possible, a hospital within easy driving range of your home, or, failing that, one where you can find temporary living quarters near at hand. The choice may be in a city where you have friends or relatives.

Dear Dr. Moiser: In multiple sclerosis in the same category with Parkinson's disease? — Mrs. G. C. M.

While both are disorders of the nervous system, the fundamental defect is quite different in each case.

Dear Dr. Moiser: I am a widow and have been invited to live with my daughter and son-in-law. I am very comfortable except they each drink from 10 to 12 cans of beer a day and I am concerned they might become alcoholics. They are 40—M. M.

They're old enough to know the facts of life and alcohol, and you're a guest so I'd maintain silence. It's quite a lot of beer, but beer drinkers rarely become alcoholics.

One Man Fired

Six Quit Ferry Protest to CPR

Six members of the steward department aboard the CPR ferry Princess Patricia walked off the ship yesterday to protest the dismissal of one man.

The six claimed they were forced to leave the ship on threat of arrest.

A spokesman for the group, Lloyd Potz, said they had asked for a chance to "talk out" the dispute with the chief and second steward aboard the ship, but had been refused. The seamen claimed they failed to get support from their union representative aboard the ship.

TOOK RESPONSIBILITY

The men are members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Mr. Potz said he was responsible for the breach of rules for which fellow-steward Bob McArthur had been dismissed. "But, when I told them that, they just waved me off and told me McArthur was still fired," he said.

REASON CHANGED

He said the reason for the dismissal was later changed, and he was told Mr. McArthur was fired for being late in "turning in" for work.

"He was seven minutes late in arriving in the dining room this morning, but a number of others arrived even later," said Mr. Potz.

NO MEETING

Mr. Potz said the CBRT union representative, a member of the stewards' department, consulted with the chief steward but failed to call a meeting between the ship's officers and the members concerned.

The strikers claimed a number of the 20-member steward department sided with them, but later backed out.

NOTHING LIKE IT

"This wouldn't have happened if we had had decent union representation," claimed Gene McDonald, one of the six who walked off the ship.

Deck and engine room personnel are represented by the Seafarers' International Union, said Mr. McDonald.

"I've been going to sea for 12 years and I've never seen anything like this," he added. He said the dismissal was "not done the proper way."

"RAW DEAL"

"If it had been, there would have been nothing we could do about it."

Mr. McArthur, who has sailed deep sea ships for 13 years, termed the firing a "raw deal."

"I've got discharges from 26 ships in my (seaman's) discharge book and they're all marked Very Good (for conduct and ability)," he said.

INTERVIEW TODAY

Mr. McArthur is staying with a relative at 3803 Cedar Hill Road. One other man, Mike Sandfield, is from Victoria, while the rest are from Vancouver.

A CPR spokesman said the men would be interviewed today at the main office. He said the company had received no communication from the union regarding the dispute.

Yarrows Launch Huge Barge

The second of two "largest in the world" barges was launched at Yarrows Ltd. yesterday.

Christened Island Importer by Mrs. F. W. Skinner, wife of the superintendent of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., the mammoth hull slid gracefully down the ways. Waiting to receive the barge were Island Monarch and three smaller tugs, Island Trooper, Island Comet and Island Scamp.

300 FEET

The Island Importer and her sister Island Exporter, the largest flat-deck, ocean-going barges in the world, are 300 feet long with 75-foot beams. Their owner, Island Tug and Barge, received a subsidy of 40 per cent of their total cost of $1,800,000.

Designed to be towed at 10 knots behind a 3,200-horsepower tug, each barge has a capacity of 10,000 tons. Cargo will be crushed limestone from quarries of Dominion Tar and Chemical Company on Texada Island.

Island Tug has a 15-year contract to transport limestone to the Portland Cement Company plant near Portland, Ore. Present at yesterday's launching were Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Elworthy, Oliver Province, Mrs. Kenneth Reid, Mrs. A. J. Helmcken, John Wallace represented Yarrows Ltd.

Jamaican Heads Home on Plank

LONDON (AP)—A homelick Jamaican climbed aboard a wooden plank at London's Ham-mersmith Bridge Wednesday, pushed out into the River Thames and headed for the sea. Ezzard Paulus drifted downriver at a steady three knots, passing barges and pleasure boats. He wore a floppy hat and was easily distinguishable from the shore. People drinking at a Putney pub saw Ezzard clinging to his plank. They raised a shout and a boat put out. Ezzard refused to be rescued. "I just want to get to the sea," he said with dignity. The boat crew hauled Ezzard aboard, his floppy hat still intact. He was pushed off to a hospital. While he waited for his clothes to dry, Ezzard, 32, said he was a hotel porter; had been in Britain four years and was a bachelor.

"My life is a misery," he told reporters. "I just wanted to stay in the river until I reached the sea—or Jamaica. I felt I must go home."

Berlin Talks

Parley Fades

WASHINGTON (AP)—French coolness raised serious doubt Thursday that the Western big four foreign ministers will hold their proposed meeting on Berlin.

President Kennedy told his press conference Wednesday: "There will be a meeting of the foreign ministers before the meeting of the (UN) General Assembly." He said it had been agreed to "in principle but time and place had not been set."

Thursday the British spilled prospects for such a get-together before the Sept. 18 General Assembly opening in New York. London announced that because of a Commu-nist prime ministers' meeting on the Common Market starting there Sept. 10, the British foreign secretary, the Earl of Home will not leave for the United Nations until Sept. 23. French objections cast doubt on prospects for such a parley even later in the UN session.

Wirtz Appointed To Top Labor Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Thursday named undersecretary of labor Willard Wirtz to succeed Arthur J. Goldberg as labor secretary, whose appointment as a Supreme Court justice was announced Wednesday.

At a press conference, the president said Wirtz, 50, has served with distinction as undersecretary since the beginning of the Kennedy administration.

Wirtz formerly taught law at Northwestern University and at the University of Iowa. Kennedy described him as an able lawyer with long experience in labor-management relations.

Bar Steps to Bar In Drink-Drive Test

HALIFAX (CP)—Judge Harold W. Pope of Moose Jaw, Sask., told Wednesday how he and seven other bar members conducted a drinking experiment.

He urged other sections across Canada to carry out experiments. The Moose Jaw District Court judge spoke in favor of a resolution urging that sections of the Criminal Code of Canada dealing with intoxicated driving and impaired driving be substituted by a section considering it an offence to drive while under the influence of a drug or an intoxicating liquor.

Friendship Boon of Visit

Names in the News

RAVELLO, Italy — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy told the mayor that one of the best parts of her vacation here was the opportunity to play with her four-year-old daughter, Caroline, to "play with Italian children of her age."

Caroline, Mrs. Kennedy said, has learned a few words of Italian during their three-week stay.

Mrs. Kennedy was quoted as saying:

"This is the best way to learn a language and to appreciate the customs of a country — through the exchange of friendships. ... I am very happy that Caroline had the opportunity to play with Italian children of her age and be in this marvelous country."

Mrs. Kennedy and Caroline will leave for home today.

MOSCOW — Post Robert Frost, at 88 making his first visit to the Soviet Union, amazed a group of Russian literary figures by telling them he used to hold down side jobs to supplement his income. He arrived on a plane with U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, who is leading a group of American technicians on a tour of Soviet hydro-electric installations.

PARIS — Blonde French movie actress Brigitte Bardot plans to obtain a divorce from her estranged husband Jacques Charrier and may marry her long-time constant companion Sami Frey, the weekly France Dimanche reported.

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has no present plans to attend the United Nations General Assembly session opening in New York next month, U Thant, acting UN secretary general, said.

OTTAWA — Dr. C. S. Moak, Dominion astronomer, has been elected president of the American Astronomical Society, the first Canadian to hold the office. The society's annual meeting was held at Yale University.

ACCRA, Ghana — President Kwame Nkrumah followed up a drastic cabinet shake-up by ordering the arrest of foreign minister Adu Boahen and information minister Tetteh Adomah. The arrests followed hard on the heels of a recent assassination attempt against Nkrumah.

VANCOUVER — Next time you're stuck, try guessing.

Dr. Robert H. Christian says this of overpowering math problems. Teachers, he says, should encourage their students to guess more, rather than proceed through laborious step-by-step calculations in attempting to work out problems.

"Of course, I mean intelligent guessing," Christian said.

LONDON — London's police commissioner today banned the march of Oswald Mosley's fascist Union Movement had planned for Sunday.

VANCOUVER — Frank Kennedy, 32, of Toronto, was either stabbed or shot in the groin

NEW WESTMINSTER — A woman learning to drive had a harrowing lesson in driving backwards downhill. The hydraulic brake line in Mrs. Elvira Kennedy's car snapped just as she stopped at an intersection. She rolled backwards down a hill and smashed into a parked car.

Students Kept Away By Telephone

BURAS, La. (UPI) — Negro pupils at Louisiana's first integrated Catholic school stayed away Thursday through a "misunderstanding" caused by mysterious phone calls. Only a handful of white pupils entered the boycotted and picketed school.

ONLY 25 WHITES

The four Negro girls and one boy who entered Our Lady of Good Harbor School on the first day of the new school year Wednesday without incident did not appear for classes Thursday. Only 25 white pupils walked in past placard-waving white pickets while a segregationist sound truck blared "Dixie" from the road. A crowd of 100 persons watched.

County political leader Leander H. Perot, excommunicated by the Roman Catholic Church for his opposition to school integration, said in New Orleans that the school would achieve only "token" integration. He said church officials were adopting Communist strategy to try to exploit racial dissension.

NO SCHOOL TODAY

Mrs. Clarence Rogers, mother of a third-grade Negro pupil, said the child did not go to school Thursday because of a phone call, supposedly from a priest, saying there would be no school.

Which whisky uses the water from a red granite burn?

Water, soft water, is one of the most important influences on the flavour of a whisky. And the water from a red granite stream is the softest and purest. Next time you drink Ballantine's, you'll sense how the stream runs in the taste.

It is differences like this that prove — the more you know about Scotch, the more you like Ballantine's.

Chiefs To Hear Experts

A battery of police-work experts, including magistrates, lawyers, police chiefs and a member of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will address the Canadian Association of Police Chiefs here Sept. 4 to 7.

More than 100 police chiefs from across Canada will attend the annual convention, being held here for the first time since 1944.

The convention will deal with methods and problems of police work, city police chief John Blackstock said yesterday.

In addition to heads of municipal forces, visitors will include representatives of the RCMP.

Baby Trader Scores

DERBY, England (Reuters)—Mrs. Jean Rock said Thursday a Canadian woman and an American woman are prepared to take up an offer she made to give away her baby for a home.

Mrs. Rock, a mother of six, offered month-old Jacqueline Monday to anyone who would supply her family with a place to live.

SEPARATED—She and the children have been living in a welfare establishment, and her unemployed husband, Jim, 35, has been at a Salvation Army hostel since they were evicted from their low-rent municipal apartment.

A childless Toronto woman wrote offering to pay the rent of a house in England for the baby, she said, while an Arizona woman telephoned to say she would pay anything for Jacqueline. She declined to identify either.

ENGLISH OFFER—In Toronto, Mrs. Harry Pasma, 38, a childless housewife, said Wednesday "if this woman in England will trade her baby for a house I'll go along with the deal."

Mrs. Rock said she has received a letter from an English woman which offered a four-bedroom cottage "and said I could keep Jacqueline."

Arden Rites Set Today In Colwood—Eustace Trevon Arden, 80, holder of a Merit Award for distinguished service as a lighthouse keeper, died Wednesday.

A resident of Sooke for the past 70 years, he received the award from King George VI. Surviving are his widow, Anne; sons Phillip, Sturdee, Jim and Richard; daughters Mrs. Francis Sullivan and Mrs. Winnie Michelson; 22 grandchildren; 18 great-grandchildren and a brother Percy.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. today in Sands' funeral home at Colwood.

Frigate Refit Brings Jobs—Refit of Pacific Command frigate St. Therese will provide badly-needed jobs for 200 shipyard workers this fall.

Work is scheduled to start Sept. 14 at Yarrow's Ltd., and will continue for about two months.

Earlier this week the yard's general manager, John Wallace, predicted major outbacks in the work force, due to the lack of contracts. The refit job, although small, will help ease the winter employment situation.

Once Scrap, Brewery Brewing—PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—An $850,000 Prince George brewery bought as scrap for $150,000 at a bankruptcy auction last January by contractor Ben Ginter, is back in business.

Roadway, Driving Blamed in Death

Death of a 20-year-old Saanich youth Sunday was caused by hazardous road conditions and his own careless driving, a coroner's jury decided yesterday.

The verdict was returned after assistant coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre held an inquest into the death of John Carlson, 1010 Jasmine Street.

Carlson died in Royal Jubilee Hospital about 12 hours after the accident occurred on Shelbourne Street, at about 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

An elusive hemorrhage in the pelvis was cited by the jury as the ultimate cause of death.

Despite efforts by doctors to save Carlson's life, the hemorrhage was only discovered during the post-mortem examination, pathologist Dr. Gordon Lott told the court.

BUMP BLAMED

Robert Martin, 19, of 1563 Richardson Street, passenger in the vehicle driven by Carlson at the time of the accident, blamed a bump in Shelbourne Street, at Feltham, for causing Carlson to lose control of the vehicle.

"As far as I can recall, there was a small bump in the road and due to the speed the car had bounced," he said. "It proceeded to spin and he (Carlson) tried to fight it on the road and then he completely lost control and then I don't remember..."

Martin admitted he and Carlson had been drinking during the evening.

NO DIFFICULTY

"When you have been drinking your reflexes are never as sharp," he said. "I realize that now but, if we had been out of the car, neither of us would have been judged as impaired."

Saanich police Cpl. Robert Coleman told the jury he had never had difficulty in driving over the bump in Shelbourne at Feltham.

He said the car travelled 340 feet from the bump before it began to skid, skidded 88 feet before it left the roadway, travelled 86 feet along the side of the road before it hit a tree and a further 86 feet before it halted.

The jury's verdict was: "The death of John Carlson resulted from an accident caused by hazardous, wet road conditions and driving an automobile without due care and attention. . . . Hemorrhage shock was the cause of death."

30 Courses Slated

Sooke Night Classes Open for First Time

For the first time Sooke school district residents will have a chance to enrol in their choice of at least 30 night school courses starting Oct. 1.

The classes, to be held at Milnes Landing and Belmont High Schools, are open to anyone 15 years old or over, who is not attending day school.

HAD TO TRAVEL

In years past, scores of night school students have had to travel to Victoria for courses, an official said.

"The courses are designed to assist adults in developing skills, knowledge and new interests at reasonable cost," the spokesman said.

Suggested courses: Bookkeeping, typing, public speaking, navigation, commercial law, shorthand, auto mechanics for car owners, marine mechanics, dressmaking, boat building, woodworking, home repairs, upholstery, draperies, slip-covers, home building, blueprint reading, small engines, oil painting, effective speech, contract bridge, weaving, ceramics, art appreciation, drawing and painting, choral singing, home nursing, golf, ballroom dancing, badminton, physical fitness, judo, fly-tying, photography, and hunting.

Each of the 20-week courses costs $15, payable on enrolment.

FORMS AVAILABLE

Application forms are available from the director of adult education, School District 62 (Sooke), 2277 Sooke Road.

Applicants were asked to designate whether they wished to attend Milnes Landing or Belmont.

Each course offered must have at least 15 students.

ERIC GILMER DIES AT HOME

Eric H. Gilmer, 66, a resident of Victoria for 28 years, died suddenly at his home, 1274 Lansend Road, Wednesday.

Born in Dublin, Ireland, he is survived by his wife, Margaret; a son, Nevin; step-father, Edward Powers; and a sister, Miss Emily Gilmer.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday in St. Matthias' Anglican Church.

Stock Split Brings Boost To Ogilvie

MONTREAL (CP) — Key issues moved higher.

Canadian Oil jumped 1 1/2% to 38 1/2% in heavy trading. Power Corporation, holder of a large minority interest in Canadian Oil, added 1 1/2% to 58 1/2%.

Ogilvie Flour rose 3 1/2% to 49 1/2% on announcement by the company of a four-for-one stock split and an increase in the year-end dividend.

MacMillan gained 1/4% to 18 1/2% among papers and International Nickel rose 1/2% to 65 1/2% among base metals. Shawinigan rose 1/2% to 23 1/2% in active trading to feature the utilities. Maritime Telephone lost 1/2% to 18 1/2%.

Steels were lower. Algoma Steel dropped a point to 41 1/2% and Stelco fell 1/2% to 17 1/2%.

Imperial Oil gained 1/2% to 43 1/2%.

Molson A rose 1/2% to 25 1/2% in active trading. Canadian Breweries lost 1/2% to 9 1/2% and Hudson's Bay Company was untraded.

In mines, Bruneau Mining at 47 cents each rose five cents to 52 cents and International Helium eased 10 cents to $2.50 after rising 60 cents Wednesday.

Tight Money Banks Not Lending

By HARRY YOUNG

Power Shares Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Gains outnumbered losses among industrial shares, despite a minor slip in the index.

Canadian Oil rose sharply to a five-year high of 38 1/2% before settling back to 38 1/2%.

Power Corporation, largest single Canadian Oil shareholder, joined in the enthusiasm, gaining 1 1/2% to 58 1/2%.

Algoma Steel succumbed to late selling, dropping one point to 41 1/2%.

Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Steel Company of Canada, Walker Gooderham and Calgary Power all declined in a 1/2% to 1% range.

Other gainers included Oshawa Wholesale A, up 1/2% to 10 1/2%.

Aluminum and Shawinigan, both ahead 1/2%, Dominion Foundries and Steel, up 1/2% to 41 1/2%.

Falcombridge paced base metals, gaining 1 1/2% to 51 1/2%.

Denison advanced 1/2%, while International Nickel dropped 1/2% to 65 1/2%.

Speculators showed less activity than in recent sessions. Northergate showed the only significant change, dropping 30 cents to $5.45.

Western oils featured unusual activity in Canada Southern Petroleum, which climbed 75 cents to $4.20.

Calgary and Edmonton advanced 1/2% to 10 1/2% and 11 1/2% respectively.

Home B and Hudson's Bay 1/2% each.

Slump in Steels

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels were weak in a mixed stock market as the list continued to wobble in the pre-Labor Day doldrums. Volume was the lightest in three months.

Some of the leading steels were sold heavily as sentiment regarding these stocks was affected by the dividend cuts of Wheeling Steel and Republic Steel, as well as prospects of further difficulty with the federal government.

Armco Steel refused to comply with subpoenas for company data issued by the Senate subcommittee on anti-trust and monopoly. The president of Armco said that to make public confidential cost data requested in the subpoenas would be detrimental to the company.

Armco stock sank 1 1/2% to 46 1/2%.

Locks exceeding a point were taken by some other leading steel-makers.

General Motors and Chrysler each gained 1/2%, American Motors rose 1/2% to 41 1/2% while Ford dropped 1/2% to 38 1/2%.

B.C. Telephone Eases

VANCOUVER — Industrials and oils showed strength, although there was an easier trend in B.C. Telephone at 47 1/2%.

Grows advanced 1 1/2% to 14 1/2% and Trans Mountain to 14 1/2%.

Golds were easier with Barron at 7.00 and Cariboo at 1.00. Coppers were firm and with few price changes.

Dividends Declared

MONTREAL (CP) — Bond prices were firmer in quiet trading. Gains of 1/2% were made in long-term Canadas and provincials, with the more recent provincial issues the most actively traded.

Bread, Cake Stolen From Trucks

Police are probing a rash of thefts from Victoria Bakery trucks over the past month.

Overnight yesterday eight of the trucks were broken into and their contents of bread and cake stolen. The vehicles were parked behind the bakery at 3430 Prior.

Quantities of gasoline have also been stolen from the trucks.

Train Kills Three

ZARAH, Kan. (AP) — A speeding freight train plowed into a gang of track workers Tuesday killing three. Two others in the 12-man gang were injured. They were trying to jockey their hand car across the Santa Fe tracks.

City Postman Jailed For Stealing Money

A Victoria mailman, convicted of stealing money from letters on his route, was sentenced to six months in jail in city police court yesterday.

Harry W. Robinson, 3125 Somerset, pleaded guilty to the offence Aug. 24.

He was apprehended when three letters containing marked bills were mailed to addresses on his route. Investigating officers found the bills in Robinson's possession.

Lloyd Dewolf, 1018 Balmoral, was found not guilty of possessing stolen property valued at more than $50.

Cameras and camera equipment, stolen from tourist cars, were found in his hotel room Aug. 5, where they had been placed by the thief.

Magistrate William Oster found the Crown failed to produce direct evidence Dewolf had any knowledge of the goods being in his room.

Dewolf was remanded for election on a second charge of mischief causing damage of more than $50.

David Walker, 225 Wilson, was remanded until today for sentence on conviction of assaulting Mrs. Georgina Poole, 235 Wilson.

Walker is the neighbor of the plaintiff. He was found guilty Aug. 23.

Trial of John Dirom, a city newsstand operator, on charges of selling and keeping for sale an obscene book, was set for Sept. 14 in city police court yesterday.

John Popadyniec, 2658 Deville, was fined $20 when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court yesterday to blasting without a permit.

Anglican Synod Closes Session

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The Parliament of the Anglican Church of Canada closed its 21st triennial session Thursday and delegates dispersed to parishes across the country with a prayer to "enlarge our hearts and kindle our zeal."

Midway prayers, pledging the churchmen to work "with more ready diligence," concluded an eight-day meeting at which delegates labored at least eight hours each day to hammer out policy on subjects ranging from divorce and nuclear weapons to the theological nuances of the historic episcopate.

A depleted synod — at full strength an upper house of 20 bishops and a lower house of 235 clergy and laymen — Thursday discussed administrative matters and issued a special plea to allow women a bigger say in the councils of the church.

Canon E. W. Scott of Winnipeg said "the church in its administration does not give women the same status as God gives them." He said it is "a tragedy" that the church is lagging behind the rest of the world in recognizing the worth of women in administrative matters.

The current synod took a step away from its attitude of discrimination towards women by ratifying a change in canon law to permit women to continue service as deaconesses after marriage.

The 21st synod completed an impressive list of 15 acts, including key pronouncements on church unity, education, church organization, marriage and divorce.

We who make whisky say:

DRINKING AND DRIVING DO NOT MIX

Fine whisky is a luxury and should be treated as such. And, knowing when to say "no" plays a great part in the art of sensible living.

Neither whisky nor any other alcoholic beverage has any place at the wheel of an automobile. This conviction must be shared by every thinking person who drives a car, particularly this Labour Day week-end when many holidaying families will be traveling on British Columbia highways.

If you expect to be at the wheel of a car this week-end, we say to you: Think before you drink. Don't drink before you drive.

Extra Fishing Day

BELLINGHAM (AP)—An additional day of salmon fishing today in United States convention waters was recommended Thursday by the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission at a meeting here.

Fishing will be allowed to fish from 5 a.m. to 9 p.m. O'fishers will be allowed to operate from 7 a.m. today to 9 a.m. Saturday. The area opened lies eastward of the Angeles Point-Williams Head line.

Chambers Preparing For Annual Meeting

Directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday night to draft policy for the Vancouver annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce Sept. 17, 18 and 19.

J. R. Coppinger, manager of the Chamber, said before the meeting that the directors would decide how to instruct their voting delegate on resolutions to be voted on in Vancouver.

Most of the resolutions will be advice to the Canadian government. The decisions on these subjects by the Victoria directors will not be announced before the Vancouver convention.

But the Victoria Chamber previously decided to back a

How To Help Teens Understand Sex

"It seems to be hard," says Dr. Spock, "for adults to think of sex as both natural and noble." In September Reader's Digest he shows how this confusion adds to the teenager's problem... why both boys and girls suffer anxiety at this time, but in different ways... and why the girl must be "the one who sets the limits of physical affection." Door Opened for Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fleming Thursday invoked a ministerial power rarely used in Canadian history to reopen the case of Robert Roberts of Toronto, sentenced to 24 years in prison on nine counts of arson.

Mr. Fleming told a press conference that documents were being filed in Ontario Appeal Court in Toronto to have the court hear the case as if it were an appeal by the convicted person against convictions and sentences on each of the nine charges.

NO REASONS
The same court on June 25 rejected Roberts' appeal against sentence, without giving reasons.

Mr. Fleming's decision permits the Appeal Court to take any moves that would have been open to it had the two-way appeal been made in the first place. It could order a new trial, or alter the convictions or sentences itself.

PLEA FROM HUNDREDS
The minister's action follows pleas by 10 Toronto lawyers and hundreds of citizens that he use "the mercy of the Crown" to intervene in the case.

The lawyers contended Roberts did not get a fair trial, was not convicted according to law; that the proceedings before Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow contravened the Canadian Bill of Rights; and that, believed that the section had not been invoked previously since about 21 years ago. The ministerial power usually is reserved for murder cases.

Mr. Fleming took the action under Section 586 B of the Criminal Code.

Mr. Fleming said he believed that the section had not been invoked previously since about 21 years ago. The ministerial power usually is reserved for murder cases.

RCMP Man Slugged

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCMP plainclothesman was slapped by a convicted drug trafficker in County Court Wednesday.

Phillip Neil Jackson, 28, stepped into the prisoner's dock. Judge William Schultz sentenced him to 14 years.

Then, as Jackson was being moved from the dock he delivered a judo chop to RCMP Cpl. Steve Bunyk.

Angered Teller Pursues in Vain

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Drive-in teller Mrs. Mildred Bearden jumped into a sports car driven by a youth Wednesday and gave chase to a bandit who stole $3,974 from the bank.

"It made me so darn mad to see him there taking all that money," she later explained.

The bandit, however, eluded his pursuer.

Collection to Help Family Wins Generous Response

Response to a collection for a Spanish family, whose home at 1580 West Burnside burned to the ground Saturday, were described Wednesday as "overwhelming."

Wes Goddard, president of the Colwood Trail Riders who organized the collection for the Larry Fitzpatrick family, said Victorians had been more than generous.

"We've collected $185 cash and considerable furniture and to clothing," he said. "As a matter of fact, we've had to turn down a number of offers because they duplicated contributions already received."

He said no more contributions will be solicited until the end of September, when the Strawberry Vale Community Association and the Colwood Trail Riders will sponsor a benefit dance at the Strawberry Vale community hall.

At that time both groups hope to collect about $500.

Pool Produces Swim Classes

The new garden apartment development at Tillicum and Burnside—which has a large outdoor swimming pool—is turning out its first group of young swimmers.

Nearly 50 children of apartment occupants took swimming instruction this summer from 19-year-old Sue Morgan, lifeguard and instructor at the pool.

Six beginners and 20 intermediates passed their YMCA tests under the direction of Art Burgess of the YMCA.

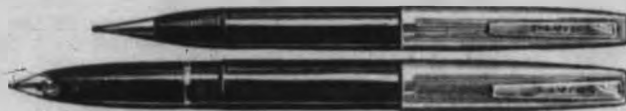

Bang-Up School

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Garland Harvard learned about shotgun the hard way. The four-year-old got an old 12-gauge shotgun from a closet, loaded it, backed off from a divan and blasted away Tuesday. Garland suffered shoulder bruises and a minor cut on the chest. The divan was a mess.

The famous Dutch admiral Maarten Tromp, killed in battle in 1633, had been a sailor from childhood.

New Grave Marker

Douglas Identified

The grave of Sir James Douglas, in historic Ross Bay Cemetery, will receive a special marker from Victoria Centennial Society's pioneers, plaques and medals committee.

The red granite stone says merely: "Sir James Douglas, KCB, born 1803, died 1877." It does not identify the founder of Victoria and father of British Columbia.

John Douglas of Victoria, grandson of Sir James, has given family permission for the new marker, which will say that Douglas founded Victoria, as a fort, in 1843; that he was Governor of the Crown Colony of Vancouver Island from 1851 to 1864, governor of the Crown Colony of British Columbia from 1858 to 1864, and that he was knighted by Queen Victoria in the Autumn of 1863.

Huge Railway Strike Cripples U.S. Traffic

CHICAGO (UPI) — The biggest railroad strike in 16 years Thursday stopped all trains on the 10,365-mile, nine-state network of the Chicago and North Western Railway.

The walkout of 1,000 telegraphers cut off transportation to one-third of Chicago's vast army of commuters, affected people and industry in thousands of cities and towns from the Great Lakes to the Rockies and threatened a pile-up of freshly harvested wheat in the Great Plains.

HOPES DIM
Hopes for an early settlement appeared dim. Federal mediator Francis O'Neill began separate meetings with railroad officials and bargainers for the AFL-CIO Order of Railroad Telegraphers. He served advance warning that the two sides were still far apart on the basic issue of job security.

PICKET LINES
ORT members, who in their communications role from the nerve centre of railroading, went on strike at 8 a.m. EDT and threw up token picket lines at depots throughout the midwest and northern plains.

More than 16,500 other North Western employees—on-train and off-train workers alike—refused to cross the lines. The railroad put its fleet of 42,200 freight cars, 471 passenger cars and 747 diesel locomotive units into "mothballs."

Train Dispute Real Muddle

OTTAWA (CP) — Three conciliation board members in the dispute between the CPR and its 6,362 firemen have not only failed in a year-long bid to solve the issues but have been unable to agree among themselves on the over-riding wage question.

Their report was made public Thursday without comment by Labor Minister Starr. Board members were chairman Judge John B. Robinson of Halleybury, Ont., company nominee R. V. Hicks and labor nominee Senator Arthur Reebuck.

REPORT REJECTED
Judge Robinson noted he had earlier recommended a 6½-per-cent wage boost for the CPR's firemen but that this majority report of that board was rejected and the CPR instead settled on an eight-per-cent wage increase in a 31-month contract.

Transport Tie-In Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways, Thursday called for an interlocking of transportation services to meet the challenge of social, economic and technical change.

Speaking at a Canadian National Exhibition directors' luncheon here, Mr. Gordon said the MacPherson royal commission on transportation underlined the need to plan ahead "in terms of a national transportation system in which each mode of transportation complements the other by doing, realistically and profitably, that part of the total job for which it is best fitted."

Fortress Stormed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty-five members of the Vancouver Kiwanis Boy's Pipe Band returned from Scotland Thursday, laden with trophies.

"It's like assaulting the impregnable fortress," said director Malcolm Nicholson, "but we did it."

Poet's Fans Ask To Open Grave

LONDON (Reuters) — Three prominent Britons suggested Thursday that William Shakespeare's grave in Stratford-on-Avon be opened up to decide whether the bard really wrote Shakespeare's plays or was merely history's most successful literary impostor.

Christmas Humphreys, lawyer and president of the Shakespearean Authorship Society, author Ronald Duncan and antiquarian Francis Carr, editor of the monthly magazine Past and Future, chose the letters column of The Times in which to present their suggestion.

APPEAL LAUNCHED

Their letter noted that "the trustees of the reputed 'birthplace' (even this is in doubt) at Stratford-on-Avon" have launched an appeal for £250,000 for a new Shakespeare centre.

The three asked: "Would not this be an appropriate occasion to open Shakespeare's tomb... and to ascertain once and for all, whether this tomb contains any manuscripts or contemporary historical evidence bearing on the life and times of the bard?"

SEEK DOCUMENTS

The hope is that the tomb contains written tributes from contemporaries of Shakespeare since it was the custom of the time for these to be cast into a dead poet's grave.

Crunch Costly

LEICESTER, England (UPI) — A candy maker was fined $54 yesterday for making sweets that did not contain the proper "substance." One of the firm's candies was found to contain a piece of wire one and a half inches long.

FATAL BITES

On the average about 1,500 persons are bitten by poisonous snakes annually in the U.S. with about 20 deaths.

Surgery Floors Watchers

TORONTO (CP) — Live television shows of surgery on small animals in the vetoscope hospital at the Canadian National Exhibition are really knocking them in the aisles.

In fact, spectators are keeling over at the rate of three during each of the two daily operations.

To date, more than 60 visitors have been carried or helped out, and a few have required hospital treatment.

Raid Found Constables Gambling

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five police undercover officers were drinking and gambling at Wigram Inn as fellow officers moved in for a Saturday night raid.

One of the five, Const. Bill Humphris, in testifying to this Thursday, said he was arrested in the raid and lodged overnight in jail.

Const. Humphris, 32, gave evidence in the fourth day of the preliminary hearing in North Vancouver where three men face charges of bribery and conspiracy to bribe a police officer.

THREE CHARGED

The three are lawyer Rockmill Myers, William Foulter Robertson and Jack Magrath, all of Vancouver.

The Crown says an RCMP officer was offered considerations to protect a large gambling establishment planned for the mountainous east end of the Vancouver harbor.

GAMES, DRINKS

Const. Humphris told the court how he participated in games at the inn, and of drinking in a cocktail lounge.

CBC Fights Budget Halving

OTTAWA (CP) — The publicly-owned CBC has been asked by the government to halve its $10,572,000 capital budget as part of the austerity program, informed sources said Thursday.

However, the sources said the corporation feels it is unable to reduce its capital spending—all of it paid — from the federal treasury — by so much because of contracts already let for several projects.

COUNTER-PROPOSAL

It has made a counter-proposal to the cabinet on which no decision has yet been made. The corporation declined to reveal the precise amount or nature of its own suggestions but speculation here was that its proposed reduction runs to around $4,000,000.

Meanwhile, the budget-trimming moves by the government as part of the emergency steps to bolster the country's exchange reserves have had no direct effect — yet — on CBC programming and operations in either television or radio.

REST FROM ADS

On this side of the budget, about two-thirds of the CBC spending is met by a $74,944,000 parliamentary grant and the rest of the $101,000,000 CBC operating bill for the current year that began April 1 was to be sought from advertisers, chiefly on TV.

Conceivably, the government could ask the CBC to leave part of the grant unspent if it seeks more of a cut than the corporation can make on the capital side.

But so far any program eliminations made by the CBC this summer or planned for the fall schedule stem not from austerity, but from general CBC belt-tightening due to a drop in its advertising revenues.

MILLIONS LESS

In the last fiscal year ended March 31, the CBC reported its ad revenues were $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 less than they would have been had the eight-city private CTV network and its affiliated stations not existed.

With this decline continuing, corporation officials said some programs may have to be erased on TV. The cuts, if any, would be in Canadian productions. On cheap imported American shows, the CBC actually makes money.

In any event, the programs affected would likely be those on some local CBC television stations or on regional TV networks. National network programming would not be touched, except as a last resort.

On the capital side, the CBC already has alluded publicly to the possibility of deferrals in these projects:

A $1,750,000 Alberta radio project to build new high-powered stations in both Edmonton and Calgary.

The proposed $2,000,000 Quebec City television stations on which the CBC's application now stands deferred by the BBG until a subsequent public hearing.

A new TV rebroadcasting station at Sheet Harbor, N.S.

A new French-language radio station in Ottawa estimated to cost about $500,000 to build.

A new TV tape relay system in Winnipeg.

Two men are better than one when it comes to preparations for opening of Saanich Fair tomorrow. Victor Virgin with hammer and Central Saanich Coun. Albert Hemstreet with saw, put finishing touches to steps outside 4-H building.

Saanichton All Set

It's Dawn to Dusk
At the Fairgrounds

By JACK FRY

Farmers on the Saanich Peninsula have been grooming their animals for weeks—and out at the fairgrounds yesterday others were working from dawn to dusk getting ready for the 94th annual Saanich Fair.

The fair, which has been running longer than any west of the Great Lakes, opens at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. It will close Sunday and be open again Monday for the Labor Day holiday.

A lot of farm chores are going by the board out in Saanich as families groom their livestock, select their best poultry and lay aside their best vegetables, cooking, homecraft for competition in the exhibits.

There apparently will be several hundred more entries this year than in 1962, which itself was a record year, said Robert McVey, secretary of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society sponsoring the old-time country fair.

He and his wife were so busy logging all the entries during the past few days they didn't have time to tally the total as of yesterday. But there were indications of substantial increases this year in the floral and poultry competitions.

Veteran Plans Visit

Elsewhere, 92-year-old George Michell, 3831 Cumberland, said he "sure" plans to take in the fair. He's not as spry as he used to be, but he hopes he can get around to see the livestock.

Mr. Michell has been coming to the Saanich fair longer than anyone else, but never tires of it.

"My mother took me to the fair 90 years ago in her arms. I was born on the farm, spent all my life watching stock and vegetables grow," he said.

Arthur Lock, 4261 Quadra, who has been farming in Central Saanich for 53 years, said he has spent three weeks washing, combing and brushing the wool of 18 sheep he will have at the fair.

"I know a lot of old-timers out there and I'm looking forward to meeting a lot of my friends," said the 73-year-old sheep farmer.

The fairgrounds at Saanich are nearly ready. Buildings have been renovated, new wiring has been installed for lighting and fences have been mended. Soon the grounds will be crowded with thousands of people.

Thank You for All ...

Centennial pageant director Dudley Remus handed out special "thank you" certificates to youngest actor in pageant, four-year-old Heather Murphy, left, and sister Kathleen, 6, yesterday. Girls' parents, Cpl. and Mrs. E. R. Murphy, 3130 Ascot Drive, also took part in pageant. Signed by Mayor R. B. Wilson, similar certificates are available at centennial headquarters for all cast members. (William Boucher.)

Will eight-month-old Shorthorn Princess Stardust win prize for her young mistress? Kerry Turner, 8, hoped so as she brushed animal yesterday at family farm, 935 Sayward.—(Bud Kinsman.)

All Pitch In for Fair Opening

Big dumpkin brought in by 12-year-old boy is entered in Saanich Fair exhibit by secretary Robert McVey, centre, and draws interest of Stuart Stoddart, treasurer, and Mrs. McVey.

Across Canada

Epic Motorcade
Rolls Into City

Fourteen sleek, light-colored cars rolled quietly into the Empress Hotel parking lot shortly after 9 p.m. yesterday, marking the near-end of an epic 5,000-mile motorcade across Canada.

Climax of the Canadian Automobile Association-sponsored trans-Canada jaunt will be today's wheel-dipping ceremonies in the waters of the Pacific Ocean—30 days after a similar ceremony took place in Atlantic waters at St. John's, Nfld.

"WE'VE GOT MORE"

Delegates from other provinces said they were impressed with what they had seen of Vancouver Island before nightfall. They will have a good look at the capital city today.

The B.C. government's official representative, Ron Gadsby of the department of recreation and conservation, said "there's an awful lot of wonderful scenery across the country but there's no question B.C.'s better—we've got more of what everybody else has got."

Driver of the B.C. car in which Mr. Gadsby rode was Jack Chestnutt of Vancouver, director of road services for the B.C. Automobile Association.

MILE ZERO TODAY

The motorcade of cars from every province commemorates the fact it is now possible to drive on "passable" roads from St. John's to Victoria.

Provincial and city officials will be on hand when the motorcade goes to the Mile Zero sign today at the foot of Beacon Hill Park.

The motorcade will leave the Empress at 10:30 a.m. to pick up Mayor R. B. Wilson at city hall. It will go down Douglas Street to the James Bay Anglers' Association ramp for the wheel-dipping ceremony.

Route back to the Empress parking lot will be along St. Lawrence to Superior and Douglas.

The provincial government will host a luncheon for the group at the Empress, and a tour and tea at the Butchart Gardens is planned for the afternoon.

TO ROGERS PASS The motorcade will leave Victoria Saturday for the Rogers Pass where official opening ceremonies will be held Monday with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker in attendance.

At Rogers Pass, Mr. Diefenbaker will be presented with "The Golden Tamper"—a counterpart of the golden spike used by railways for similar occasions.

The Golden Tamper, an antiquated piece of road building equipment covered with gilt paint, was carried across Canada by the motorcade on behalf of the Canadian Tourist Association.

A heavily-travelled highway does not lend itself to parking.

building being put up by Dr. Jack Patterson. Lots of luck, fitters.

CIVIC CENTRE: AM. AN Yonke is bucking the odds in chairing the committee to carry through the plan to build a civic centre around city hall, bounded by Government Street, Pandora, Douglas and Fiagar. No criticism of Ald. All, but can anyone remember a major civic project of any kind that was carried through without mistakes, setbacks and just plain whiffing?

SUMMER SHOW: Victoria's Junior Red Cross benefited by an unexpected $2.81 this week—proceeds from a home benefit show organized by five little maids from James Bay—Marion Depew, 7, of 245 Michigan; Arlene Kurl, 6, of 245 Michigan; Joy Kurl, 11, of 271 Michigan; Cathie Ingram, 9, of 271 Michigan; and Donna Wickard, 6, of 241 Montreal.

Victoria Day

Council
To Visit
At Fair

City officials appear to be taking Victoria Day at the Seattle world's fair with a grain of salt.

Ald. Austin Curtis, who with Ald. Alfred Dowell, is in charge of arrangements, said the Victoria Day program consists only of a visit to the fair by the mayor and aldermen, accompanied by the Canadian Scottish pipes and drums.

Ald. Curtis said the program had been discussed at city council.

NOT FAMILIAR

Mayor R. B. Wilson said he had just returned to town and was not familiar with plans.

"All I know is what I read in the papers," was the reaction of William Hawkins, commissioner of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

"I haven't anything to do with it."

SPENT MONEY

City aldermen apparently don't want to follow the example of Vancouver. That city spent considerable money on a program for Vancouver Day. On arrival at the fair, city fathers found other communities had been allocated the same day.

Victoria Day at the world's fair will be Sept. 15, and it is the final day of Canada Week at the fair.

WITH AMBASSADOR

Formal opening of Canada Week will be Sept. 9, at 3 p.m. Canadian ambassador to Washington, Charles Ritchie, will officiate. Washington Governor Albert Rosellini will attend.

Military personnel from Victoria will make a big splash in Canada Week events, which will partially make up for lack of enthusiasm by Victoria civic groups. Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry will send 29 men to appear in 19th-century red-coated uniforms. They will be equipped with muzzle-loading muskets.

ANCHORED AT PIER

HMCS Fraser, Saguenay, Ottawa, Skeena and Margaree will be anchored off Pier 91 in Seattle harbor. Outlined in lights at night, they will be open to visitors.

Other features of the week will include daily performances of the Canadian military tattoo, the RCMP musical ride and aerobics by the RCMP Golden Hawks over Sand Point.

Crash Hurts
Woman, 70

A 70-year-old Victoria woman was in fair condition in Jubilee Hospital yesterday following a car accident at Richards and St. Charles. Mrs. Gladys Anderson, 1021 Pemberton, suffered lacerations to the right side of her face. She was a passenger in a car driven by Edith Beggar, 1518 Regent Place. It was in collision about 3:30 p.m. with a car driven by Dorothy Curtis, 1885 Cedar Hill.

'Something Must Be Done'
For Parking Ban Victims

By IAN STREET

Small merchants located on both sides of Douglas Street north of the roundabout are suffering hardship as the result of a parking ban which serves no useful purpose, Ald. Michael Griffin said last night.

Ald. Griffin, chairman of the city's special traffic committee, said an on-the-spot investigation yesterday showed the curb lane, which had previously been used for parking on both sides of the street, was still not carrying traffic.

"No matter how wide we make Douglas—if we had eight lanes instead of the present six—we still could not move any more traffic because the roundabout at Fountain Circle is already operating at full capacity," he said.

Ald. Griffin added: "All of which once again points up the need for completion of the proposed Blanshard Street extension as the second main traffic artery leading into the city."

SECOND ARTERY

This would enable placing of signal lights at Fountain Circle to ensure a free flow of traffic in both directions and allow parking on both sides of north Douglas Street without hindrance to traffic movement.

'Douglas Ban
Must Remain'

Capital Improvement District Commission has reaffirmed its support of the ban on curbside parking along Douglas Street, between Saanich Road and the Fountain Circle.

The ban was recently imposed and has sparked criticism and protests from small merchants along the road.

Parking ban was a condition of the CIDC's offer to pay for the $175,000 beautification project along that section of Douglas.

J. Everett Brown, chairman, said last night the commission's decision to have parking banned was unanimous.

He said the CIDC took into consideration two major points:

Merchants affected had "considerable notice" of the parking ban.

A heavily-travelled highway does not lend itself to parking.

SURPLUS STOCKADE:

Would anyone like a genuine prefabricated fort guaranteed to be assembled in 30 seconds? Centennial co-ordinator Frank Preston and pageant director Dudley Remus are trying to figure out what to do with the model of Fort Victoria used in the pageant. It's still lying around at Royal Athletic Park, 27 days after the close of the pageant.

HUNTING MAYOR:

Any hunters at Hillcrest in the Lake Cowichan area Dec. 2 are likely to stumble across Mayor Dick Wilson doing access gate duty along with Russell Rev. Ed Cuppage and J. W. Campbell. Under fish and game club rules, anyone who gets an access pass into lands owned by a timber company must do a turn, checking on the gate from dawn until 3 p.m.

FAINT PRAISE: In view of the tragedy of thalidomide being released on an unsuspecting public it was interesting to read an advertisement in Canadian Doctor, a business journal for the medical profession, about another "miracle" tablet which boasts "specific formulation assures maximum efficacy with absolute minimum of undesirable side effects." Surely any undesirable side effects are too many?

NUMBER, PLEASE:

City clerk Frank Hunter, who frequently walks to work from his home on Dallas Road and sometimes walks home, too, would like to see the B.C. Hydro buses copy an accessory from the street cars they replaced—a large number on top of the bus. The small numbers fore and aft of the buses are useless when three or four of them line up, stem to stern, at rush hours. Travellers have to run along to each bus to read the number. If the numbers were on the roof they could easily be read.

In Chile Accent Is on Femininity

Judit Vergara hasn't cut her hair in 22 years. She isn't going to either until her wedding day.

It's an old tradition in Chile. "In my family women have kept their hair long until marriage and then cut it on their wedding day," said the pretty girl from Concepcion whose dark tresses fall to her waist. "My mother and my sister have not followed the tradition, but I promised my father I would not touch mine until I was married."

Judit explained that in Chile long hair is regarded as a mark of femininity. And the accent is on "femininity." "Chilean girls dance and play the piano for their sports," she explained. "That's what a girl wants and gets along with her formal education."

GIRLS FRAGILE
"The girls keep the image of femininity by being fragile and romantic and would do nothing to break the image. In the United States sometimes it's hard to tell the men from the women."

Judit is studying at California schools. This summer she worked in San Diego for Pacific Telephone.

"Although it is said my country is full of Latin lovers, they have a special consideration for a woman because of the way she acts," Judit said. "Men have a real respect and old-fashioned courtesy for women in Chile."

Judit said that dating habits are also quite different in Chile than in the United States.

"Everyone loves to dance and goes to a ball to dance, not just stand around. Girls never go in a car with a boy alone, but must always be accompanied by parents or chaperones. If not, they are considered bad girls."

"And we must home by 10 p.m. at the latest, even when accompanied, unless we go to a party, and then we stay all night."

"Parents figure it's better to have their young people at home all night than running about the streets and perhaps getting into trouble," Judit said.

"American people are very anxious to be liked and loved," she commented. "They show affection much more easily than do the people in Chile, and, gee, it's nice to do something for someone whom you know will thank you with a very warm smile."

Turning to her experiences at Palomar Junior College where she is majoring in English literature, Judit said:

"Here education is much more specialized than in Chile. We at home learn little things and can discuss much more in less detail than American students."

"But your students know so much about one subject. Both education systems have their strong and weak points, I suppose."

Judit plans to teach when she returns home to Concepcion next summer.

Hair Hugs Head For Sleeker Look

By HELEN FARMER
TORONTO (TNS) — Your hairdo this fall should be like the new fashions unveiled in Italy and France during the past four weeks.

A good basic cut with few frills. Out in the phony, stereotyped bouffant style, back-combed to staggering heights and held there by great gusts of spray.

In is the soft, casual feminine look with no teasing, sculptured into shape by deft brushwork.

Our hairstyles are usually influenced by trends developed in the fashion centres of Paris or New York.

So I talked to two hair designers this week, one visiting here from New York, the other recently returned from Europe.

FLIP WAVE

Both brought with them the same news of things to come... of head-tugging hair, of gentle waves, of a sleeker look.

Franz Wutz of New York, who's here this month as styling consultant at Morgan's Antique Salons, says "we're really going back."

"The latest thing is the Flip Wave that's reminiscent of the 1930's. It's perky but casual, sophisticated but natural."

Trip East Follows St. George's Wedding

Sub. Lt. and Mrs. Eric Nielsen, who were married recently in St. George's Martyr Church, are now honeymooning in Eastern Canada. Rev. J. A. Roberts officiated at the evening, double ring ceremony for Heather Louise, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hawkins. Sea View Road and Sub. Lt. Eric Nielsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Nielsen, Sudbury, Ont.

The bride chose a classic gown of white peau de soie fashioned with long sleeves and scoop neckline. A bustle effect at the back gave added fullness to the floor-length skirt. Her tiered waist-length bouffant veil was held by a wide coronet and her flowers were a cascade of white roses. A single strand of pearls were the gift of the groom.

Floor-length gowns of peacock blue imported peau de soie were worn by senior attendants, Miss Judy Hembroff and Miss Bonnie Bray and junior bridesmaid, Miss Wendy Walters. They chose toning shoes and pill box hats. White gladiolus were in their bouquets.

Little Lynn Davidson was flower girl in a short white full skirted dress. Blue flowers were in her basket and in her hair.

Sub. Lt. Bob Jackson (P), RCN, was best man and Sub. Lt. Dermot Halloran, RCN, Sub. Lt. Frank Dennis, RCN, Sub. Lt. Larry O'Brien, RCN, and Master Guy Hawkins were ushers.

White and apricot gladiolus decorated the Naden Ward room for the reception. Fred Jewett of Vancouver proposed the toast to the bride.

For her going away suit the new Mrs. Nielsen changed to a yellow wool suit with pleated skirt and fitted jacket. Black patent accessories and a French pill box hat accented the ensemble.

The newtows will go to Dartmouth, N.S. in November to make their home.

Girls Strip At Wedding

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP)—The Bournemouth city council apologized today for seven beautiful girls who stripped down to bathing suits to form an honor guard at a church wedding.

The girls are all swimmers in a water show with the bride, 22-year-old Eileen Hart.

At Eileen's wedding in a local Anglican church, the seven sat demurely and fully clad in their pew through the half-hour service.

After the service, the dresses came off in the churchyard outside, revealing swimsuits embellished by filmy trains of white lace. A scantily-clad honor guard was formed for Eileen and actor David King as they walked out of the church.

Rev. J. R. Pale, who conducted the service, looked shocked but didn't say anything. Then the vicar, Rev. Alfred Loughlin, heard about it. "I appreciate that the girls appear in public in these abbreviated costumes," the vicar told reporters, "but it was appalling taste to do so in the churchyard."

"We allow hockey sticks and things like that for guards of honor. But you have to draw the line somewhere."

'Tripoli Beautiful But Just Too Hot'

By JULIE CLARK

"Tripoli was beautiful, but just too hot," says Ginny Grant who last week returned from a three and a half month tour of Europe and North Africa. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Grant of Victoria.

"But it was pure luxury compared to riding on a basket of bread and tomatoes in a 25-year-old bus filled with Bedouins."

This experience was endured while rumbling across North Africa with another Victoria girl, Carole Hayde.

The two started out from Alexandria having no idea of the distance to Tripoli where they would stay with Victoria friends, Mr. Harry Keith and his wife well-known author, Agnes Newton Keith.

Mr. Keith is director of forestry and agriculture for the United Nations in Libya.

They discovered the 1,400 miles would take them almost a week in a bus that progressed at 40 mile an hour top speed.

Fortunately on the second day when the novelty of this mode of transportation had waned considerably, an Englishman driving across the desert, gave them a lift to their destination.

HEAT PROSTRATION

"Besides the bus being sick," says Ginny, "there was a snarly Bedouin sitting behind us, a rifle on his knee and a belt of bullets."

Their visit to Tripoli was extended to two weeks as Carole became very ill with heat prostration in the 120 degree climate.

While in Alexandria they were fortunate to meet a Captain of the Guards of the Palace of Ras-el-Tin who showed them the sights. Heliopolis, Memphis and a week in Cairo took up much of the time.

"But the filth and poverty were just indescribable," she says recalling vivid scenes of grimy unclean bread . . . "it was delicious" . . . slapped onto an even grimmer table black with flies.

MISS GINNY GRANT . . . returns from travels. —(Karl Spreitz.)

"They believe flies heal their tracoma. Therefore the children run around with eyes covered with them. One out of five eyes is bad."

"You're not allowed to take pictures of the poverty and much of the mail is censored. Apparently Egyptians cannot leave the country except to study, for a health cure or on a work contract."

One little Arab Ginny met was extremely interested in coming to Canada to study, especially when he found out that girls go out with boys here.

While speaking to an Egyptian girl, Ginny found that there, a couple gets to know each other only after marriage.

Greece appealed most to the travellers, perhaps because they were able to see more of the country due to the generosity of a bus load of touring Germans.

Their two scrapes with Iron Curtain authorities caused temporary panic among the girls, but difficulties were eventually straightened. Most of the tour of Europe was spent with fellow hitch-hikers Diane Harris and Sonja Stradle of Victoria and Val Johnston of Vancouver.

Staying in Youth Hostels they visited Bavaria and Luxembourg as well as London, Paris, Madrid and points in Belgium, Scandinavia and Austria.

Accommodation averaged 25 cents a night. Food was substantial . . . "breakfast, six hunks of bread and tepid coffee" . . . if not too nutritious.

Ginny's future plans include a final year at UBC for her BA and hopes that she will be able to return to the Continent perhaps to study social work at the Sorbonne.

Bourden, and bridesmaid, Miss Sue Currie, cousin of the groom, wore matching gowns of turquoise taffeta fashioned with scooped necklines and bell skirts. Their headresses were matching velvet and net whistles. White carnations were in their bouquets.

Mr. John Ludgate was best man. Ushers were Mr. Ronald Card and Mr. G. Mitchell. Mr. E. Harrison was soloist.

At the reception held at the bride's home Mr. Bill MacMillan of Edmonton, Alta., proposed the toast to the bride.

A three-tier wedding cake, flanked with crystal candelabra and white candles, centred the bridal table.

For their wedding trip the bride changed into a two-piece mauve silk brocade sheath dress with accessories on tone.

The newlyweds will leave for Urbana, Ill., in early September where the groom will attend the University of Illinois for a post graduate course in civil engineering.

Maid of honor, Miss Della

Daily Colonist Victoria, B.C., Fri., Aug. 31, 1962 19

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. James Audain are having as their house guest, Mrs. Frances Francis Jayne of London, England. Mrs. Jayne was formerly Miss Marion Sale, daughter of general manager of the Hudson's Bay Company. Her husband, Col. R. F. S. Jayne, DSO, is a former commanding officer of the Seventh Queen's Own Hussars. Mrs. Jayne is en route to visit her daughter in New Zealand.

Returns from Europe

Miss Dianne Tudway has returned from a trip to Europe and is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Beard at Cordova Bay and her grandmother, Mrs. Walton Beard, Shakespeare Street, before going to her home at Comox.

Baby Christened

The names Ian James were given to the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mitchell of Port Alberni, B.C., at a ceremony in All Saints' Anglican Church, Alberni. Rev. John Frith officiated. Godparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Mitchell of Calgary, Alta., and Mr. B. G. Shiels of Penticton, B.C., for whom Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Plowright and Mr. W. H. Mitchell stood proxy. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mitchell of Victoria, and Mrs. V. W. Shiels of Penticton and the late Mr. Shiels. A buffet dinner followed at the home of the baby's parents.

Back from Abroad

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Hobbs have returned to their home, 1842 Chandler Avenue, after a four-month visit overseas, in the British Isles and on the continent. En route home, via Bermuda, they spent some time with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Sutherland at Scarborough, Ont.

For Frankie Boden

Bride-elect, Miss Frankie Boden, was honor guest at a surprise shower held recently in the Kipling Place home of Mrs. B. Sylvester who was assisted by her mother, Mrs. D. Dentith as co-hostess. Little Wendy Sylvester presented corsages to the bride-to-be and her mother, Mrs. E. Boden. The gifts were hidden in a laundry basket decorated to represent a naval seaman's cap. Guests were Mrs. G. Willis, Mrs. E. Powell, Mrs. M. Adams, Mrs. P. Tolonen, Mrs. A. Girouard, Mrs. B. Kallrath, Mrs. H. Reid and Mrs. P. Taylor.

Needle and Thread Lodged in Her Chest

TORQUAY, England (UPI)

When Mrs. Jean Hocking went to the hospital for an examination she was asked to have a second X-ray because the first film showed a mysterious object apparently was lodged in her gown.

But it was still there when she put on another gown for the second X-ray. Doctors performed surgery and found a needle threaded with cotton, which had been in her chest for three years.

Mrs. Hocking, a seamstress and dress-maker, is accustomed to holding pins and needles in her mouth or clipping them to her blouse while working.

"I may have swallowed this one or knocked it into myself," she said today after the operation. "I remember that I once had a sharp pain which I thought was indigestion and to ease it I gave my chest one or two hard slaps."

Garden Notes

Time to Split Pinks

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Garden pinks such as Mrs. Sinkins and White Lady have now finished flowering, and if the clumps have been occupying the same position for three years or more, the soil will be becoming exhausted and the clumps somewhat overcrowded and congested. It is about time they were taken up, divided, and the portions replanted.

First step is to clip off all the faded flower heads, taking out the whole stem in each case. Then ease the clump out of the ground carefully with a digging fork and shake off enough of the excess soil so you can see what you're doing.

Rather than cutting into the clump, I think it is better to tear it apart with the fingers into pieces about half the size of the palm of your hand. From an average three-year-old clump, you should get five or six nice tufts, each with its fair share of the roots.

The site selected for replanting these pieces should be dug over to the full depth of the spade, incorporating half a bucketful of very old rotted manure or ripe compost per square yard, plus two cupfuls of pulverized limestone.

I prefer the pulverized limestone to hydrated lime for this particular purpose as it lasts longer and is less violent in its action, besides imparting a certain beneficial grittiness to the soil. If hydrated is the only kind of lime you have on hand, though, by all means go ahead and use it, but at half the rate—one cupful per square yard. If you have no rotted manure to enrich the site, use peat moss soaked in a fertilizer solution.

Set your clumps of pinks in the soil at the same depth as before, spreading the roots outward through the soil rather than letting them dangle down in a narrow hole. Space your pieces six inches apart, and water them in as you plant with either Transplantone or vitamin B-1 in the water.

Clumps of pinks not yet old enough to require moving can be given a tonic now to encourage the formation of new roots, which will enhance the display of bloom next year. The trick here is to top-dress them with a gritty mixture of one-half good garden topsoil, preferably sieved, and one-half pulverized limestone. For your topsoil, you can't do better than to rob the vegetable plot, for if this portion of the garden has been given its usual annual manuring, the soil should be in excellent shape for use as top-dressing.

Again, if you don't have any crushed limestone, substitute half the quantity of hydrated lime, and make up the balance with coarse sand to give the required grittiness.

Work the mixture well in under the sprawling outer shoots to encourage a more upright habit of growth and dump a good handful right into the centre of the clump as well. If you have any of the mixture left after the pinks have been given their little treat, dish it out in the same way to the other members of the Pink family—carnations, Sweet William, Sweet Wivelsfield, Alwoodii and the like.

I imagine the most widely planted and most beloved of the old-time pinks is Mrs. Sinkins, treasured for its fragrance in almost every garden where pinks are grown. Yet no other plant has had such a lowly origin, for it was born in a poorhouse!

Catherine Sinkins was matron of Albert House, the Poor Law Institute at Slough, England, where her husband was workhouse master. Mr. Sinkins raised the plant in the poorhouse garden in 1872, naming it for his wife. Both the Sinkins rest in the churchyard of St. Mary's, Slough, but the pink they created has gone on to win awards in horticultural shows, the world over.

ART BUCHWALD Pictures a Bill

Don't Trample the Congress

PARIS—President Kennedy is having a great deal of trouble getting any of his legislation passed.

"The way things are going in this present Congress," a friend told us the other day, "I doubt if the President could get a law passed to prevent people from walking on the White House lawn."

This got us to thinking what would happen if President Kennedy asked for powers to keep people off the White House lawn, based on what has happened to most of his other legislative requests.

The first thing the President would have to do is to announce at his press conference that he was asking for special legislation to prevent people from walking on the White House lawn. He was also requesting funds to have a sign made and painted—"Do Not Walk on the Grass"—which he proposed to place in a conspicuous spot for everyone to see. The President warned at the press conference that, if he didn't have these powers, the White House lawn would soon deteriorate, and he considered this one of the most important bills of his entire program. Since appropriation were involved, the bill was introduced in the House of Representatives. The House Subcommittee on Appropriations, with much reluctance, held hearings.

The President had requested $20 for the sign. The chairman of the committee considered the request a waste of the taxpayer's money. The committee recommended that the President be authorized to spend only $10 for the sign. The committee then voted $6,000,000,000 to the Air Force to build 30 new B-70 bombers which the Department of Defence hadn't asked for.

The House of Representatives passed the bill with some misgivings and only after they had been assured the Senate would hold the bill up.

The real battle for President Kennedy's bill started in the Senate.

Several Senators pointed out that it was Congress who decided who should not walk on the lawns of government buildings, of which the White House was only one. If they gave this power to the President, he might use it to prevent them from walking on the White House lawn, something that our forefathers had no intention of doing when they wrote the constitution.

A group of liberal Senators objected to the bill on the grounds that the sign would be made and painted by a private company. They threatened to vote against the bill if the government was not permitted to paint the sign themselves.

The Southern bloc wanted a rider written in the bill specifically forbidding Negroes from walking on the White House lawn.

The Northern bloc felt that Negroes had the same right not to walk on the White House lawn as anybody else and wanted this written into the bill.

The Western bloc said they would vote for the bill if it provided for construction of six new dams at the same time.

The Senators from Nevada proposed that the sign be made from silver. Oregon suggested it be made from nickel. Georgia wanted it made from cotton.

President Kennedy had all the Senators to breakfast and explained the importance of his bill. He brought in a Harvard landscape architect to dramatize the damage that could be caused when people walked on the grass.

The Senators assured the President there would be no problem to passing the legislation.

Then they went back to the Senate and defeated the bill, 89 to 11.

The President, who was furious, announced at his press conference he would take the question of the sign to the people in November. He then cancelled his subscription to "Better Homes and Gardens."

HAROLD HEFFERNAN Finds Rarity

Wrinkles Cash in Bank

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—You ladies who stand before the mirror fretting about the arrival of a new wrinkle and take off to the beauty parlor for salvation should get acquainted with one of Hollywood's most popular character actresses. Wrinkles are money in the bank to her.

This deflator of feminine ego is Lillian Bronson who knows what it's like to be young only when she removes her makeup after the day's work.

"I wear wrinkles as other Hollywood girls do false eyelashes," Miss Bronson smiled. "Wrinkles are my stock in trade."

Miss Bronson's picture specialty is age. She plays ancients of all kinds. At the moment, she's Grandma, Donald Crisp's wife and mother of Henry Fonda in Spencer's Mountain, at Warner Bros.

"I first started playing old women in plays at the University of Michigan," the actress said frankly. "At the time I wasn't vain enough to refuse to be old 'way beyond my years. I simply wanted to act."

"Margaret Anglin, the great New York star, then middle aged, made a guest appearance with us at Ann Arbor. The show was Antigone, and I was cast as Miss Anglin's mother-in-law. She was certain this young person would never fool the audiences-to-be. But I did. It was Miss Anglin who urged me to become a character woman in my career."

According to Buffalo-reared Miss Bronson, she has lost count of the number of elderly types she has tackled. "I disguise the old women that I draw from life. You see, I keep a large mental ledger on age, made up of people I've encountered here and there. I borrow from their looks and characteristics."

Miss Bronson says she can't overestimate the importance of clothes and hair-dos in her character portraits.

"Where most Hollywood actresses keep closets full of smart things to wear, I load my closets with garments reflecting old age," she said. "I continually haunt old clothes sales, and attend many auctions. As for hair arrangements, I spend hours before the mirror at this when I'm first thinking over an old girl I'm about to play."

Miss Bronson, who shuns beauty shops and abhors the idea of a "face lift," came to Hollywood in 1943 from Broadway and has remained ever since because her telephone rings whenever there's an older "to" depict.

Lucy, Ethel Rejoined —Without Husbands

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lucille Ball and Vivian Vance are back at the same old stand, three years and a few husbands later.

The famed redhead and her blonde pal Vivian are teamed once again for television, their first engagement together since the end of nine fabulous years of I Love Lucy.

This time it's The Lucy Show. The girls are the same as ever, though their marital status needs some explaining.

Lucille has shed her real and television husband, Desi Arnaz, and married comedian Gary Morton, but Desi remains producer of her show.

Vivian is no longer married to her real spouse, actor Philip Ober, nor to William Fraxley, her ever-loving husband of I Love Lucy. She now is the wife of literary agent John Dods.

To keep the confusion to a minimum, the new show features them husbandless—Lucille by death and Vivian by divorce.

I found Vivian on a rehearsal day at the Desilu lot, where she is established in a swank suite. What has she been doing for the last three years?

"Everything I could," she replied. "I played the Jack Paar Show and summer stock; I kept as busy as possible. There was a special reason for this."

"I had to find my own identity. I was so submerged in Ethel Mertz that I was afraid I would never again be recognized for my own self. Oh, I was grateful to her for the biggest success I had ever known. But, being a creative person, I was worried that I would be stuck doing the same role all my life."

"Well, I found myself. I found people to be amazingly receptive. Many critics said of my summer theatre work: 'I went expecting to see Ethel Mertz, but after the first two minutes I wasn't aware that she was anyone but Vivian Vance.'"

Now living in Stamford, Conn., Vivian appears happy in her marriage to Dods, whom she met on a blind date in Santa Fe, N.M.

Accounting Procedures

Bonner Cool To CPR Probe

Attorney-General Robert Bonner yesterday dumped cold water on a plan by Island MLA Dan Campbell (SC, Comox) to have B.C. demand a federal probe into CPR accounting procedures.

Mr. Campbell's statement followed on the heels of the CPR's announcement that it is drastically curtailing car and passenger service between downtown Vancouver and Nanaimo.

Mr. Bonner said such an investigation was needed because taxpayers are subsidizing CPR transport operations whose books fail to reflect the company's real estate earnings.

He cited proposed sale of a golf course to the city of Vancouver for close to $3,000,000 as an example of CPR real estate values.

Mr. Bonner said yesterday Canada's board of transport commissioners have many times examined the CPR's financial affairs and he doubts whether a further probe would serve any useful purpose.

Theatre Guild Member Frances Howorth Dies

A well-known Victoria Theatre Guild member, Miss Frances Howorth, 58, 235 Cook, died last Friday.

She was a member of the guild for 10 years, and served both backstage and on the administrative board. She also played in a number of productions.

A resident of Victoria for 12 years, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Frances E. Howorth; brothers, Charles E. Howorth and John Howorth, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Sands' funeral home.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "Mayor Has 5th—Gets Little High." That headline in the Miami News topped a story reporting that Mayor and Mrs. Robert King High were proud parents of a fifth child, Bonnie Lou High.

Poland Completes Wheat Trade Deal

WINNIPEG (CP)—Officials of the Polish agricultural trading agency, Rolimbex, Thursday concluded negotiations with the Canadian Wheat Board for a credit purchase of 11,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat worth approximately $23,000,000.

It is understood grades covered by the contract are Nos. 2 and 3 northern.

The Poles also have taken an option to purchase a further 7,500,000 bushels by Feb. 1, 1963. They indicated chances of taking up the option would be enhanced if No. 4 wheat was available.

Franc Modrzewski, Polish deputy minister of foreign trade, said in an interview that while his country was satisfied with present credit facilities it was considering a suggestion from Canadian agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton for an extended form of credit similar to the one now in force between Canada and Red China.

Other Facts of '62 Given to Rotarians

Historian Dr. Douglas Leechman reversed a trend yesterday in a speech to Victoria Rotary Club—he talked about The Rest of the World in 1962. He ignored the developments in Victoria in the year it became a city to paint a backdrop of world events.

Canadian confederation was still in the future, he said, 1862, which accounts for my being here today," he said.

typewriter had still not been invented. Coal gas was becoming generally used.

In England beards were becoming popular, together with velocipede races. An asylum for cats was opened in 1862 and an anti-ivisecution society was formed.

And he added one more little-known facet of history. "My father was born in Alaska still belonged to Russia and the telephone and

CITY OF VICTORIA NOTICE OF HEARING

Notice is hereby given that all persons desiring their interest in proposed amendments to the above-mentioned draft by-law, will be afforded an opportunity to be heard on the matters contained therein, before the City Council at a public hearing to be held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, on THURSDAY, the 6th day of SEPTEMBER, 1962, at TWO o'clock p.m.

Copy of the by-law may be inspected at the office of the undersigned between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on Monday to Friday inclusive.

The By-law provides for ONLY the rezoning from "Single Family" to "Multiple Dwelling" of Parcel "A" of Section 41, Plan 12, and Lot 3, Plan 1978, of north 10th Street, between Ardson Street and Moss Street, (Case of Western Bottling Co. Ltd.)

M. F. HUNTER, City Clerk.

The Corporation of the District of North Cowichan, P.O. Box 368, Duncan, B.C.

INVITATION TO TENDERS Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed: "Tender for Sewer Construction in the Quamish Heights Subdivision, North Cowichan, B.C.", will be received at the Office of the Municipal Clerk, P.O. Box 368, Duncan, B.C. until 5:00 p.m. Tuesday, the 18th day of September, 1962.

The work consists of supplying pipes and manholes, trenching, laying and backfilling approximately 2,400 ft. of 8-inch and 6-inch diameter asbestos-cement sewer pipe including installation of service connections and the supply and construction of manholes and cleanouts in portion of the Quamish Heights subdivision and a trunk sewer to the existing Townsite sewerage scheme in North Cowichan, B.C.

The plans and specifications may be examined at: a) The Municipal Office, Duncan, B.C. b) The office of Head Jones Christensen Ltd., 609 Courtenay Street, Victoria, B.C. and copies may be obtained upon deposit of twenty dollars. This sum shall be refunded following the return of the plans and specifications and submission of a Tender. Should a contractor decide not to submit a tender his deposit will be refunded only if plans and specifications are returned in good condition prior to the time for closing tenders. A cash tender shall be tendered by a certified cheque in the amount of ten per cent of the tender price plus a letter of consent signed by a surety company or a bid bond in the amount of ten per cent of the tender price. The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

A. Van der Caay, Municipal Clerk. Dated at Duncan, B.C., this 27th day of August, 1962.

Rally Protests Plant Moving

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Ford of Canada workers massed in an outdoor rally Wednesday demanded that government action be taken to prevent plant movements from the city.

The meeting was called when United Auto Workers leaders said they were not satisfied that enough is being done to curb what they term "runaway" plants that result in loss of jobs. The union holds that such moves should be subject to negotiations and conciliation.

CPA blamed its trouble on restrictions imposed on its trans-continental flight frequencies, on insufficient traffic and last year's general reduction in fares.

The department said three Canadian scheduled regional carriers showed some profit while a fourth reported a heavy loss.

Canadian Airlines Had Bad Year in '61

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. commerce department says preliminary figures show that 1961 was the worst financial year for Canadian air carriers.

In a brief report appearing in its weekly International Trade Magazine, the department said that although traffic increased, the six scheduled Canadian carriers lost more than $14,500,000 in 1961, compared with a loss of $7,500,000 in 1960.

Canadian Pacific Airlines showed a loss of $7,600,000, while Trans-Canada Air Lines was $6,500,000 in the red. TCA attributed much of its loss to a sharp switch from first-class to economic travel in Canada and to the cost of introducing jet aircraft.

CPA blamed its trouble on restrictions imposed on its trans-continental flight frequencies, on insufficient traffic and last year's general reduction in fares.

Big Ones Necessary to Win

The fish to topple this Labor Day weekend in the Colonel King Fisherman contest are a 56-pound tye, a 45-4-pound spring salmon, a 19-1-pound coho, and 8-8-pound lake trout, a 21-pound river trout and a five-pound bass.

Tye leader in C. A. Kellow of Port Alberni with a 56-pounder from Nahmint, but as he is not a Colonist subscriber he qualifies only for the King Fisherman trophy. In the lead for the Colwood Pharmacy moving picture camera is Roy Forsyth, 620 Alwyn, Alberni, with a 49-pounder from Nahmint, who is a Colonist subscriber.

LEADING SPRING

Harry Southin, 3985 Hollydene, leads the spring division with a 45-4-pounder from Oak Bay and as a subscriber he qualifies for both the trophy and the Youngstown waste disposal outfit from W. R. Menzies Co.

Top coho is a 19-1-pounder landed by South Burnaby angler Roy Preston at Comox. Leading subscriber is Peter McCully, HMC Dockyard, with a 16-8-pounder from Cowichan Bay. He qualifies for a trophy as Islander trophy and Jeanne Bros. rubber boat, in L. Davis of Lake Cowichan with a 6-14-pounder from Cowichan Lake.

TROUT CONTENDERS

Capt. F. F. Beckett of Brampton, Ont., has biggest lake trout, an 8-8-pounder from Buttle Lake. Leading subscriber, who qualifies for Islander trophy and Jeanne Bros. rubber boat, is L. Davis of Lake Cowichan with a 6-14-pounder from Cowichan Lake.

William Monyck of Youbou, a subscriber, leads the river trout section with a 21-pound steelhead from Chemainus River and qualifies for both the trophy and the tent from Jeanne Bros.

FOUR IN THE

Bass lead is shared by four anglers, all subscribers and all with five-pound bass. In line to share the $100 Imperial Expo prize are Stan Brown of Nanaimo with a Spider Lake bass, David Ryan of Ganges with a St. Mary Lake bass, A. Burton, 5042 Wesley, with a Spider Lake fish and Lorne Davina, 978 McBriar with a Spider Lake fish.

Probers Urge End To Tariff Protection

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's tariff protection in order to end, would open the industry to United States competition, was recommended by the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission in a report made public Thursday by Justice Minister Fleming.

NEEDLESSLY HIGH

The commission said prices have been kept "needlessly high" on paperboard shipping containers — predominantly corrugated cardboard cartons — and on the paperboard used by box-making companies.

It said the public had suffered from "the common system of pricing which has persisted over many years" in the twin industries making containers and paperboard.

MOST PROFITABLE

They were "among the most profitable" industries in Canada, the commission said, and removal of tariffs should restore "effective competition."

The three-man commission found that price-setting stemmed from use of a "ready reckoner" cost manual issued by Container Statistics Limited of Toronto and its president Fred C. Hayes, a former wartime price control administrator for the industry.

Also recommended was court action to bring about a ban on all interchange of price and production information within the industry.

But the commission advised against legal steps to dissolve any or all of 14 members in the industry since 1945. It said that on the basis of judicial interpretation of the Combines Investigation Act, none of the mergers would constitute a breach of the act.

CLEAR UP LAW

However, it urged that a ruling be obtained from the Supreme Court of Canada to clear up the "uncertainty in the law" raised by the judicial interpretations.

Justice Minister Fleming said study would be given to "the question of what further steps ought to be taken."

In all cases the commission proposed removal of the tariff against potential competition from the U.S.

Since June 24, under the government's emergency financial measures, another five-per-cent tariff surcharge has been added, and the commission said removal of tariffs "may not be feasible during the present financial crisis."

But it recommended the move "as a policy to be adopted when feasible."

NAME COMPANIES

The five companies named in the report in connection with mergers were: MacMillan and Bloedel Limited, Vancouver (since merged with the Powell River Company); Pacific Mills Limited, Vancouver (now Crown Zellerbach Canada Limited); Canadian International Paper Company, Montreal; Bathurst Containers Limited, Bathurst, N.B. (a subsidiary of Bathurst Power and Paper Company); and Minas Pulp and Paper Company Limited, Hantsport, N.S.

On the basis of present legal interpretation, the commission said, "none of the mergers with which we are here concerned constitutes an offence against the Combines Investigation Act."

Soviet Bombs 'Clean'

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — There has been no radioactive fallout on Canada from current Russian nuclear tests on anything like the scale of last fall, officials said Thursday.

This has led to some speculation here that the Soviet Union has developed a "clean" bomb—that is, one from which there is little or no radioactive fall-out.

ENORMOUS YIELD

It is known that the Russian nuclear tests last fall were "cleaner" than previous Soviet trials. In the words of the scientists, there was 80 per cent cleanliness compared with 50 to 60 per cent cleanliness in Soviet tests which preceded the Russian-broken moratorium of 1958-61.

The 80-per-cent cleanliness was on a total enormous yield of about 120 megatons, equivalent to 120,000,000 tons of TNT, in approximately 50 atmospheric tests.

CAUSE OUTCRY

The 20-per-cent dirtiness caused an outcry around the world and Canada joined in strong protests in the United Nations.

There have been eight known Soviet tests in the latest series but, officials said, there has been no marked increase in the level of short-lived radiation as there was last year, when the government kept the Canadian public posted almost day by day on the radiation count.

Neither has there been, officials said, any evidence of a rise in the radioactive iodine-131 count in fluid milk as has occurred in the United States mid-west.

Campbell River

Seaplane Hits Fishing Boat Seven Saved

CAMPBELL RIVER —

One man was hospitalized and six people were dumped into the icy water at the mouth of the Campbell River last night as a seaplane eased down for a landing and crashed into a small fishing boat.

In satisfactory condition in hospital here is George Woodworth, about 45, owner of the fishing boat. He suffered extensive leg cuts.

Witnesses said Mr. Woodworth and his three sons—Everett, Douglas and David—were on board the small craft as it chugged directly into the landing path of the airplane.

PILOT OF PLANE

Pilot of the Island Air Lines plane was John McNeill, Campbell River. His passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ragner of Seattle.

Impact of the crash caused only moderate damage to the boat, but the aircraft's floats were ripped off and the three on board were able to free themselves only seconds before the crippled machine sank in shallow water.

All three of Mr. Woodworth's sons were pitched into the water by the force of the collision.

The mishap occurred just at dusk.

RCMP are investigating.

Five Killed Four Live In Crash

SELDovia, Alaska (AP) — Five men were killed and four injured critically in the crash of a twin-engine amphibian Thursday near this Kenai Peninsula town.

The dead were among eight cannery workers being flown to Homer for connecting flights to Seattle.

The pilot was identified as William C. Decraft of Homer. He survived the crash along with Tore Hoven, 18; Bob Olson, 18; and Florentine Lamuge, about 48, of Hawaii.

Canadians Serve UN In Guinea

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will contribute a senior air adviser and two amphibious RCAF Otter planes with air and ground crews to the United Nations temporary administration in West New Guinea, it was announced Thursday.

External Affairs Minister Green and Defence Minister Hartness said in a joint statement that the Canadian government has acceded to the UN's request for these personnel, to be attached to the UN headquarters in West New Guinea.

U.S. Invasion Refusal Disappoints Cubans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy's pronouncement that the U.S. will not invade Cuba hit Miami's large refugee colony hard, but many anti-Castro leaders took it philosophically.

The people's revolutionary movement, one of the largest underground groups, issued a statement to the effect that "if the United States doesn't do it, then we will."

Women Shot In Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP) — Two women were shot to death Thursday in northeast Edmonton and police were holding a 26-year-old man for questioning about the shooting Thursday night.

The man was picked up by police after he arrived at an Edmonton hospital carrying a child and a suitcase.

Towboat Strike Threat to Island

By ED COSGROVE

Threat of a coast-wide towboat strike which would idle more than 250 Victoria towboatmen and partially isolate Vancouver Island loomed today.

The first strike in the B.C. towboat industry in 31 years, its effect on Vancouver Island's economy would be serious.

Movement of deep-sea ships from port to port, berthing and the offshore loading of lumber would be virtually at a standstill.

LOGGING CRIPPLED

Logging, construction and barge shipment of raw materials to and from Vancouver Island would also be crippled.

Main Island ports that would be affected by the strike would be Victoria, Nanaimo, Chemainus and Port Alberni, while similar tie-up would occur at Vancouver and New Westminster on the mainland.

Traffic of railway cars to the island would be cut as much as 30 per cent.

SEPT. 10 SET

Sept. 10 has been set as the strike deadline by the Marine Engineers Union and the Seamen, Cooks and Deckhands Union, following rejection of a conciliation board report.

The two unions voted more than 85 per cent in favor of rejecting the report, which recommended a six-per-cent wage boost over three years. The unions are seeking a 10-per-cent wage hike over a two-year contract, plus job security benefits.

300 MEMBERS

The Engineers' Union has 300 members, 43 of them employed by Island Tug and Barge at Victoria.

The deckhands' union has

Wet Bet Winds Up With Man in Drink

QUESNEL (CP)—A man made a bet with drinking pals that he could walk the narrow rail on the Quesnel bridge.

He lost the wager, fell 30 feet into the Fraser River and broke his ankle. Bystanders pulled him out of the water.

Kenneth Baker of Quesnel was later charged with intoxication.

Algerian Forces Threaten Capital

ALGIERS (AP) — Regular Algerian army forces with Soviet and Chinese weapons rolled toward Algiers Thursday night under orders of Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella to subdue mutinous guerrillas controlling the capital.

Telephone reports received here said dust-covered columns of trucks pulling cannon were moving along three national highways.

Shortly afterward all wire communications between western and central Algeria were cut off.

HEAVY COLUMNS

Before the communication blackout, European settlers reported seeing heavy columns passing Charon and Vialar and Bourbaki after nightfall. Both areas are about 150 miles from Algiers.

The soldiers' commander, Col. Houari Boumedienne, was under orders of Ben Bella's political bureau for loyalist troops to re-establish order in the capital.

CALL THEM FASCIST

Guerrilla troops of the wilayas military zones 3 and 4 called on the population to resist Ben Bella's move for power which they called a Fascist dictatorship.

But despite heated appeals, at dusk, no visible efforts had been made to defend the capital.

French military sources said they doubted a major clash was imminent.

Earlier both sides issued communiqués that sounded as though civil war was near.

Algerian officials assured foreign diplomats that "everything will blow over."

'Fire One,' Says Judge

Case Blows Up In Wastebasket

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Dewey Jones, 25, a machinist, was on trial Thursday for illegal possession of firecrackers.

The firecrackers were offered in evidence.

"I assume counsel will stipulate these are explosive," said the deputy district attorney, Gerald Regan.

But the defence lawyer, Tom Thorne, refused. Municipal Judge William Christensen ruled one firecracker should be shot off. Placing it in a wastebasket, Regan lit the fuse and stepped back.

Nothing happened.

Regan shrugged and said, "well, your honor, I guess we'll have to dynamite..."

BANG!

When the smoke cleared, the jurors retired and half an hour later brought in a guilty verdict.

"What took you so long?" the judge asked.

He fined Jones $50.

Islanders to Learn If Tristan Livable

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — Twelve Tristan da Cunha islanders left South Africa Thursday to see if their people can again inhabit their lonely Atlantic home after 10 months absence.

The tiny community of 260 had to evacuate Tristan da Cunha, 1,750 miles west of Cape Town, last October when volcanic eruptions shook the island.

Mile for Each Year

Crowds Slow Birthday Hiker

TORONTO (CP)—A 71-year-old Toronto woman who celebrated her birthday with a marathon hike says she thinks she'll switch to a racetrack next year.

Mrs. Stella Johnston made the observation Thursday as she sat with her feet in soothing water after a 71-mile trek from Vancouver, Ont., to the Canadian National Exhibition here.

Mrs. Johnston said crowds along the route delayed her trip by several hours.

"I like to have them come out to see me, because their cheers help you on. But the talking and pulling wears you out, too."

"I think I'll try to do it on a racetrack next year."

Mrs. Johnston recalled that a man tried to pull her into a tavern along the route to give her refreshment.

A teetotaler and vegetarian, she wasn't having any.

Mrs. Johnston, a physical culture fan since her youth, began her birth walks in 1950.

She sets the mileage to match her age.

Oral 'Shots' Here Soon

Only One Case So Far

Polio Vaccines Prove Worth

With the first half of the annual peak polio season now past, provincial health officials report only one case of the paralytic form of the disease in B.C. in 1962, and they may the balance of the year "looks promising."

Deputy health minister Dr. J. A. Taylor said yesterday about half of the province has been offered double immunization—Salk and Sabin vaccines—while the remaining half consisting of Vancouver Island and the lower mainland will be offered free Sabin doses in October.

He said the largest part of British Columbia's population has received Salk immunization but only the interior and the northern part of the province has received the newer Sabin oral vaccine.

Dr. Taylor said most of the Sabin vaccine clinics will be set up in provincial health units and at schools.

The oral vaccine, he added, is purported to offer more lasting protection than Salk injections, and he urged everybody—including those who have been Salk immunized—to obtain Sabin immunization.

Within a short time, the deputy minister predicted, Salk vaccine will be used in B.C. only for primary immunization of infants. He said it can be safely administered to the newborn after six weeks while the Sabin immunization is not usually administered before three months.

He said there were seven cases of paralytic polio in the province last year and all had been diagnosed prior to Aug. 20. But he pointed out both August and September are considered the polio peak months.

'New Possibilities?'

Duncan's Jaycees Plan Tourist Probe

DUNCAN — The Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to conduct a survey on the tourist trade in the Cowichan Valley as the Jaycees feel attractions here are not yet fully exploited. The area to be surveyed includes Duncan, Crofton, Chemainus, Lake Cowichan, Maple Bay, Cowichan Bay and Shawnigan Lake.

President Gordon Doman said the program might disclose new possibilities for tourist attractions, making visitors stay longer in the district. "It is important to stimulate their interest," Mr. Doman added. The Jaycees are planning to meet with members of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce to discuss recommendations for improvement of the local tourist industry. "We have many attractions here and I am sure we shall be successful in our venture," said Mr. Doman.

TOPINO — Nominations close Sept. 5 for candidates to fill a vacancy on the village commission. A vacancy was created by resignation of Murray Summers who resigned his post at the last meeting.

DUNCAN — Warning of a possible occurrence of an Asian flu epidemic this winter was given delegates to central Vancouver Island health unit here. Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, the unit director, said he expected the flu to be less serious than that of two years ago which was widespread and caused much absenteeism.

DUNCAN — A Campbell River man, J. W. Fleming

pledged not guilty to passing a worthless cheque in a local service station, but was convicted and fined $50. The accused travelling through Duncan Feb. 18, paid for $4 worth of gasoline with a worthless cheque.

COURTENAY — G. W. Ledingham submitted a low bid of $199,524 for blacktop roads, underground light and phone wires, water drainage and sewer work at the city's 133-lot land assembly project.

Two other bids were $249,683 by Mid Valley Construction and $255,308 by McPhail Construction.

The city's consultants, Associated Engineers, will study the bids before one is accepted.

COURTENAY — L. J. Wallace, deputy provincial secretary, unveiled a plaque to mark the opening of Kiwanis Village here.

The six units, a duplex and a quadrangle, were built by the Courtenay Kiwanis Club with provincial, federal and municipal aid.

The six homes, all occupied, are valued at $48,000.

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo Duplicate Bridge Club will launch its new season at 7:45 p.m. on Sept. 5 at the Harewood fire hall. Anyone needing a partner is requested to telephone to Mrs. D. Radcliffe.

NANAIMO — Archie McNab of North Surrey told police his one-ton Ford truck had been stolen from near the CPR wharf some time during the past week. The truck was equipped with a cattle rack four feet high.

NANAIMO — About 125 people attended the Unitarian Church camp on Gabriola Island. "Man and Nature" was the subject dealt with by the principal speakers.

NANAIMO — A thief forced a window at General Auto Sales Ltd. and jimmied a cash drawer. He failed to obtain anything of value.

Blaze, Guts Vessel

POWELL RIVER — Nanaimo fisherman Les Akenclose stood on deck as his boat went up in flames and tried to remember where he left his wallet.

It almost cost him his life.

SPOTS FLAMES

Akenclose, 54, was steering from the deck of his 32-foot troller Jim Jo 15 miles northwest of here, when he spotted flames coming from the cabin. "All I could think of was my wallet, containing $300. I don't know why this bothered me—the boat was worth $3,000 and only one-third insured," he said.

WALLET SAFE

Akenclose found out subsequently the wallet was in the pants he was wearing. A passing water taxi plucked Akenclose from his doomed vessel.

Near Ladysmith

Logger Killed

LADYSMITH — A 62-year-old logger, J. Solmie of Ladysmith, was killed late Wednesday when struck by a rolling log at Crown Zellerbach logging operations near here.

He was employed as a bucker.

A company official said Mr. Solmie had just completed a cut with his power saw when the accident occurred.

Motoring Marathon Nears End

NANAIMO — The Canadian Automobile Association's Trans-Canada motorcade arrived at Departure Bay and was met by an RCMP escort which conducted them through town to the Esplanade and then on to the Malaspina Hotel.

There they were extended official greeting by Ald. Doug Greer, acting for Mayor Pete Maffeo and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce.

The party had dinner at the Malaspina and then set out for Victoria.

On Saturday, the motorcade will turn its back on Canada's western shores and leave Victoria for the official opening of the Trans-Canada Highway at Rogers Pass.

Liberal View Unchanged On Columbia

REVELSTOKE (CP) — A meeting between Premier Bennett of British Columbia and Liberal leader Pearson has left the Liberal party unmoved in its stand on the Columbia River treaty, B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault said Wednesday night.

Mr. Perrault said Mr. Pearson had assured him since his Ottawa meeting with Mr. Bennett that the party still insists "the present version of the treaty must be modified and improved."

The premier also spoke to Justice Minister Fleming this week in the hope of speeding Canadian ratification of the international plan for development of the river's hydro potential.

B.C. and Ottawa have disagreed on the sale of downstream benefits to the United States, and the Liberal party has said the treaty must be renegotiated.

Park Chief Under Fire

EDMONTON (CP) — The Journal says two Alberta Progressive Conservative members of Parliament want J. R. Coleman removed as director of national parks because they believe he has been the chief obstacle to development at Jasper and Banff.

The newspaper says Dr. Hugh Horner, member for Jasper-Edson, wants Mr. Coleman fired. "He's the worst type of civil servant I've met," the MP said.

Eldon Wooliams of Calgary, member for Bow River, said he wants Mr. Coleman moved to another job.

Junior Rocks Face Protest

VANCOUVER (Special)—South Vancouver Legion has protested its loss to Victoria Junior Shamrocks in the B.C. Junior lacrosse final.

The Legion club, meeting with the B.C. Junior Lacrosse Association here last night, protested on the grounds that Victoria used ineligible juvenile players and players who had played some games in the senior Inter-City Lacrosse League.

Shamrocks won the best-of-five series, three games to two.

McCNeill, manager of the Victoria team, told The Daily Colonist that he hopes to have a ruling from the association by tonight.

Shamrocks are scheduled to play Brampton in the Canadian final for the Minto Cup in Victoria starting next Tuesday.

Bombers In Front

Stamps Sag In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG — Almost pitifully inept in the first half and showing only little improvement in the second, Calgary Stampede took a 26-1 pasting from Winnipeg Blue Bombers Thursday night in a Western Conference football game played before 16,054 fans.

It was the sixth game of the season for the Stampede, who have only once looked as good as pre-season touting in managing to lose four and tie once. Their playoff ambitions may be settled as early as next week, when they take on Edmonton Eskimos in a home-and-home series.

In winning their third in a row since an opening loss to Eskimos, Bombers were every bit as superior as the score indicates, likely more so.

Stampede had a wretched first half. They gained only 14 yards on the ground in 10 carries, completed one pass out of seven thrown and had one intercepted. Their only first down came on their lone completion—a 14-yard toss to Larry Robinson from the befuddled Jerry Keeling.

Meanwhile, under the fine direction of Kenny Ploen, the Bombers took to the air with great effect. They led by 14 after a quarter, were off by themselves at 22-0 by half time. Winnipeg found Calgary defenses a bit stiffer after that but had no trouble with what was passing for an attack.

Stampede yielded stubbornly for the first 10 minutes but Bombers started to move when a 48-yard pass from Ploen to Leo Lewis put them deep in Calgary territory. They were held but Stampede could only get to their own 43 with a punt, and four plays later, Bombers had their first touchdown.

Ploen missed with one pass, then got 15 yards on a toss to Ernie Pitts, 19 on a toss to rookie-end Bob Deegan and then collaborated with Lewis on a beautiful reverse which saw Lewis skirt his own left end untouched. Gerry James kicked the first of three conversions and it was 8-0 with the second quarter less than a minute old.

On the first play after the kickoff, Henry Janzen intercepted a Keeling pass and while the Stampede held, they were again deep in their own end of the field and again could only kick out to the 43-yard line. This time, it took only one play as Ploen hit Lewis with a pass just in front of the goal posts.

Stampede again lost the ball on the first play after the kickoff, this time on a fumble as Keeling tried to hand off to Jim Dillard. It took Bombers six plays to go 33 yards. They got 17 of them when Lewis almost got away on the Statue of Liberty play, 23 on a pass to Roger Hagberg, and the last three on a pass to Pitts in the end zone.

CONCEDED POINT

Jack Delvaux' second single and a 33-yard field goal by James completed the Winnipeg scoring. Stamps avoided a shutout on a conceded punt single.

Keeling and Walden, who was four for eight, managed only eight complete passes out of 25 and most of the Calgary yardage came late in the game. Stamps had 136 yards in the air and only 70 on the ground. 53 of them by Earl Lunsford, who had averaged 116 yards in his first five games.

Lewis, carrying nine times, and Joe Williams, a colored rookie back from Iowa playing his first pro game who carried seven times, had 56 and 50 yards carrying, respectively. Lewis added 98 yards with three catches and fullback Roger Hagberg 64 yards as a pass-receiver.

First downs: 10 (Cal); 10 (Winnipeg). Total yards: 136 (Cal); 70 (Winnipeg). Passing yards: 136 (Cal); 70 (Winnipeg). Rushing yards: 53 (Cal); 70 (Winnipeg). Total offense: 136 (Cal); 70 (Winnipeg). Time of game: 1:00. Attendance: 16,054.

'Victory Over Myself'

INSTANTLY
Before he won the heavyweight title, Floyd Patterson had in him the toughest character. Here is a new installment of Patterson's own story, "Victory Over Myself."

By FLOYD PATTERSON

When you're rootless and aimless, you're very much like a stray dog roaming the streets. You go one way and then you go another, but you never have any real direction. You never know what you're looking for. I was that way until 1952, although I knew I was improving as a fighter. Once the talk of the Olympics began, however, there was direction. There was also more work and more fights than I ever imagined I could have in one year. I fought 19 times before I made the team. I knocked out 14 of these opponents, beat four on decisions and one on a default.

Everything seemed to be working out the way it was planned. I had three bouts and won all three on one-round knockouts. I won the last one in 40 seconds. I thought that made me an Olympian. I was way off base. I had to fight my way through five more tournaments before making the Olympic team.

I won the Inter-City Golden Gloves by beating a lightweight from Chicago named Eddie Jones, and then I faced my first real big decision. The National AAU championships, the next step up the Olympic ladder, were scheduled for Boston. I won in Boston and again in Albany, N.Y., where the Eastern Olympic tryouts were held.

My last fight for a berth on the Olympic team ended in one minute and 42 seconds of the first round. I beat a college guy—me who had trouble getting through grammar school. My opponent was Gordon Gladson, who had won the National Collegiate championship only a short while before. But I hit him with a left hook, made the team, and opened a few eyes, by the way, over for the game. I'd like to believe that. It gives me a sense

Best United States Team

I'm told that the experts considered our 1952 Olympic boxing team the best the United States has ever sent for the games. I'd like to believe that. It gives me a sense of pride. Before we went over to Helsinki, Finland, Pete Mello, one of our coaches from the Catholic Youth Organization in New York, predicted we'd win five individual titles.

We did. Nate Brooks won the flyweight crown; Charley Adkins, the lightweight; I took the heavy middle; Norval Lee, the light heavy, and Ed Sanders, the heavyweight.

On Sept. 12, 1952, I fought my first professional bout. My opponent was Eddie Godbold, a seasoned middleweight. It was the semi-final of the opening of the fall boxing season at the St. Nicholas Arena. I weighed in at 164½.

When Lavelle started to bandage my hands I knew we were getting close to ring time.

Half Went to Mother

Half of my first purse, which amounted to $300, went to my mother. For several years thereafter, as a matter of fact, that was my policy. Fifty per cent of what I made went home for the folks. Our apartment began to be a place that was much more pleasant to live in.

We finally got a telephone, a TV set, a piano for my sisters and other modern appliances that made life a little bit easier for my mother.

As for myself, I started to expand a little, too. I no longer slept with my two older brothers. I began to share a bed with my kid brother, Larry. I also indulged myself in clothes. I bought new things like there was no tomorrow. Suits, shoes, shirts, underwear.

After beating Godbold, I fought and knocked out a veteran middleweight, Sammy Walker, and then Lester Jackson, who had given me a hard time in the amateurs. All this happened within 30 days, and in that short period of time I earned $1,100 for 22 minutes of actually being in the ring. I would have had to work maybe a year and a half in the grocery store or shined maybe 100,000 pairs of shoes for that kind of money, and things had to get better for me.

tics, sports jackets, slacks, everything I never had before and now was able to have. I was like a man who had been starving and then sits down to a full table to eat. He can't stop until he overeats and becomes sick.

Bill Wakeham Selected For Canada's Golf Team

An entire season of steady, sometimes brilliant golf has paid off in a large reward for Bill Wakeham, the 21-year-old Gorge Vale swinger.

Wakeham was named last night, along with three others, to represent Canada in the world amateur golf championships in Japan in October.

Teammates for the poker-faced Wakeham are Gary Cowan, Kitchener, Ont.; veteran Nick Weslock, Burlington, Ont. and reinstated amateur Bob Wyke, from Calgary.

Bruce Forbes of Brantford, Ont., chairman of the selection committee for the Royal Canadian Golf Association, also named Calgary's Doug Silverberg, Peter Hope of Dartmouth, N.S. and Johnny Johnston of Vancouver as alternates.

Wakeham's selection to the team came as no real surprise to local golf fans. They pulled for him as one man when he won the B.C. amateur championships at Victoria in July and were delighted with his showing in the Canadian amateur that has just finished in London, Ont.

Wakeham led the B.C. Willingdon Cup team in scoring even though it failed to retain the trophy and was the last B.C. golfer to be eliminated in the amateur. He reached the quarter-finals, bowing out to Reg Taylor of South Africa, the eventual tournament winner. Taylor had to birdie the last two holes to beat Wakeham one up.

What may have swayed the selection committee was Wakeham's brilliant showing when he won the recent Trail Open. He beat out a clutch of Washington pros and was eight under par for 36 holes.

Harry Young of Victoria, B.C., director of the RCGA, believes that this marks the first time that a Victoria golfer has been chosen to an international golf team.

Wakeham could not be reached for comment last night. He was off to Nelson for another tournament.

Captain of the team, Dr. J. E. Laidy, Saskatoon, president of the RCGA, will take the team by plane from Vancouver in mid-October.

Giants' Victory Leaves Fans Gasping Cincinnati Knocks Over Dodgers, 5-4

Whether or not the Giants will eventually win the National League pennant, fans who turned up at Candlestick Park yesterday won't soon forget the 3-2 victory San Francisco scored over Milwaukee Braves to gain a game on the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In a game in which they used five relief pitchers in the last three innings, the Giants won, three home runs to two, only because of some late single and walked Johnny Rocco to leave the bases loaded and the score 5-3.

CRATON SINGLE
In came Jim Brown, who struck out pinch-hitter Duke Snider, gave up a scratch single to Maury Wills which made it 5-4, then got Gilliam on an outfield fly.

GAME-ENDER
Davenport made a great play on a ground shot by Hank Aaron and managed to force the runner at the plate. Then Larsen speared a sizzling line drive by Tom Aaron and turned it into a game-ending double play.

With Cincinnati Reds staying off a last-inning rally to salvage the last game of their three-game series with the Dodgers, the Giants found themselves again within two and a half games of the lead, and only two games out on the losing side.

BIG TROUBLE
Reds scored four runs in the first inning and one in the fifth and Jim O'Toole started the ninth inning with a five-hit, 5-0 shutout. Then trouble broke loose.

Singles by Jim Gilliam and Tom Davis and an error by Ed Kasko loaded the bags with one out. Ron Fairly followed with a two-run single and O'Toole left in favor of Bill Henry. But Lee Walls hit a inning defensive heroics which saw the Braves fail to score although they loaded the bags with one out in the eighth inning and again with no one out in the ninth.

The game got off to a spectacular start. Warren Spahn, winner of six in a row and with a fair chance of getting the six decisions he needs for a 12th 20-game season, got the first two outs and had two strikes on Willie Mays.

Then Mays hit the next pitch for his 40th home run, and Orlando Cepeda followed with his 32nd. Jim Davenport, back in action after a 15-game lay-off, gave Sanford a 3-0 lead in the sixth inning with his 13th homer.

Jack Sanford, who had won 12 in a row for the Giants, started the seventh inning with a single. Sanford came out and in came Bob Bolin. Bolin ran into trouble in the eighth. Billy O'Dell came in and got into more trouble as the Braves loaded the bags.

Saanichton All Set

It's Dawn to Dusk At the Fairgrounds

By JACK FRY

Farmers on the Saanich Peninsula have been grooming their animals for weeks—and out at the fairgrounds yesterday others were working from dawn to dusk getting ready for the 94th annual Saanichton Fair.

The fair, which has been running longer than any west of the Great Lakes, opens at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. It will close Sunday and be open again Monday for the Labor Day holiday.

A lot of farm chores are going by the board out in Saanich as families groom their livestock, select their best poultry and lay aside their best vegetables, cooking, homecraft for competition in the exhibits.

There apparently will be several hundred more entries this year than in 1962, which itself was a record year, said Robert McVey, secretary of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society sponsoring the old-time country fair.

He and his wife were so busy logging all the entries during the past few days they didn't have time to tally the total as of yesterday. But there were indications of substantial increases this year in the floral and poultry competitions.

Veteran Plans Visit

Elsewhere, 92-year-old George Mitchell, 3831 Cumberland, said he "sure" plans to take in the fair. He's not as spry as he used to be, but he hopes he can get around to see the livestock.

Mr. Mitchell has been coming to the Saanichton fair longer than anyone else, but never tires of it.

"My mother took me to the fair 90 years ago in her arms. I was born on the farm, spent all my life watching stock and vegetables grow," he said.

Arthur Lock, 4261 Quadra, who has been farming in Central Saanich for 53 years, said he has spent three weeks washing, combing and brushing the wool of 18 sheep he will have at the fair.

"I know a lot of old-timers out there and I'm looking forward to meeting a lot of my friends," said the 73-year-old sheep farmer.

The fairgrounds at Saanichton are nearly ready. Buildings have been renovated, new wiring has been installed for lighting and fences have been mended. Soon the grounds will be crowded with thousands of people.

Thank You for All...

Centennial pageant director Dudley Remus handed out special "thank you" certificates to youngest actor in pageant, four-year-old Heather Murphy, left, and sister Kathleen, 6, yesterday. Gloria parents, Cpl. and Mrs. E. R. Murphy, 3730 Ascot Drive, also took part in pageant. Signed by Mayor R. B. Wilson, similar certificates are available at centennial headquarters for all cast members. (William Boucher.)

Union Charges:

Mill Picket Line Bars Workers

PORT ALBERNI — A company "picket line" made up of shop foremen prevented workers of the Somass division mill of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. from reporting to work, an International Woodworkers of America spokesman said yesterday.

W. E. Allen, president of Local 1-83, said the picket-line-in-reverse was set up Tuesday morning. He said company foremen stationed at the time clocks at the big mill were detailed to tell employees not to report for work.

MASS MEETING

Mr. Allen said a mass meeting of more than 300 millworkers, affected by the dispute which arose over promotion of a man in the boom crew, voted full support for the action taken by the 48-man boom crew.

Charges and counter-charges have been made by both company and union spokesmen since the dispute started last Monday.

TALKS RESUME

In Vancouver, talks resumed yesterday aimed at settling the walkout which has closed the mill, idling a total work force of 483, according to company claims.

The company has charged the walkout of the boom men is illegal and said a total of more than 875 employees could be affected as the log inventory drops.

In a lengthy statement yesterday, Local president Allen placed the blame squarely on what he termed the company's refusal to abide by a promise made by its personnel office.

NO PROVISIONS

"... During the week of Monday, Aug. 20, some of the boom crewmen, through their shop stewards, drew to the attention of the personnel department that the company was not observing seniority provisions of the master agreement," said Mr. Allen.

The men were protesting promotion of a man with less seniority on the boom crew. He said they were assured the situation would be corrected. Then the following Monday, when the same shift found the situation unchanged, said Mr. Allen, they remained in the boom shack.

BACK TO WORK

He said the crew went back to work when they were told the matter would be discussed in a meeting that afternoon.

Later, said Mr. Allen, the union was presented with a written statement which "ignored the promise made by the personnel department and the terms of the master agreement in respect to seniority provisions."

He said the men refused to leave the boom shack when they were informed of the company's decision.

Union Protests 'Partners'

PORT ALBERNI — Labor Minister Leslie Peterson's claim that a "genuine partnership" exists between labor, management and government in B.C. has been hotly contested by officials of one of the province's biggest union locals.

A statement by the executive of Port Alberni Local 1-45

of the International Woodworkers of America said if a partnership existed, it was designed to "make the poor poorer and the rich richer."

MILK INCREASE

"The workers in the Alberni valley today have less purchasing power than they had a year ago due to the tremendous increase in the cost of living and the unfair distribution of continuously increasing profits in the wood products industry," the statement charged.

The statement said the report of the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. for the first six months of 1962 showed profits had increased 53 per cent, while employees wages increased only 3 1/2 per cent.

NOT ADEQUATE

The tremendous increase in the cost of living will not be felt by shareholders with a 53 per cent increase in profit, but for the workers... the 3 1/2 per cent increase is far from adequate to offset the increased cost of living."

In his Labor Day message, Mr. Peterson said:

MINI PROGRESS

"The progress of labor continues to be outstanding, expansive and at the same time, sound. We have reasons to be gratified that in beautiful B.C. there is a genuine partnership between labor, management and government. This policy we reaffirm with conviction and assurance."

'Something Must Be Done' For Parking Ban Victims

By IAN STREET

Small merchants located on both sides of Douglas Street north of the roundabout are suffering hardship as the result of a parking ban which serves no useful purpose, Ald. Michael Griffin said last night.

Ald. Griffin, chairman of the city's special traffic committee, said an on-the-spot investigation yesterday showed the curb lane, which had previously been used for parking on both sides of the street, was still not carrying traffic.

"No matter how wide we make Douglas—if we had eight lanes instead of the present six—we still could not move any more traffic because the roundabout at Fountain Circle is already operating at full capacity," he said.

Ald. Griffin added: "All of which once again points up the need for completion of the proposed Blanchard Street extension as the second main traffic artery leading into the city."

SECOND ARTERY

This would enable placing of signal lights at Fountain Circle to ensure a free flow of traffic in both directions and allow parking on both sides of north Douglas Street without hindrance to traffic movement.

'Douglas Ban Must Remain'

Capital Improvement District Commission has reaffirmed its support of the ban on curbside parking along Douglas Street, between Saanich Road and the Fountain Circle.

The ban was recently imposed and has sparked criticism and protests from small merchants along the road.

Parking ban was a condition of the CIDC's offer to pay for the $175,000 beautification project along that section of Douglas.

J. Everett Brown, chairman, said last night the commission's decision to have parking banned was unanimous.

He said the CIDC took into consideration two major points:

Merchants affected had "considerable notice" of the parking ban.

A heavily-travelled highway does not lend itself to parking.

FAINT FRAME:

In view of the tragedy of thalidomide being released on an unsuspecting public it was interesting to read an advertisement in Canadian Doctor, a business journal for the medical profession, about another "miracle" tablet which boasts "specific formulation assures maximum efficiency with absolute minimum of undesirable side effects." Surely any undesirable side effects are too many?

NUMBER, PLEASE:

City clerk Frank Hunter, who frequently walks to work from his home on Dallas Road and sometimes walks home too,

WOULD LIKE TO SEE THE B.C. HYDRO BUSES COPY AN ACCESSORY FROM THE STREET CARS THEY REPLACED—a large number on top of the bus. The small numbers fore and aft the buses use are useless when three or four of them line up. Travellers have to run along to each bus to read the number. If the numbers were on the roof they could easily be read.

NIGHT LIFE:

I hear there's a move afoot to start up a new nightclub in town with talent like Lena Horne coming in for short engagements. Charter membership bonds run at $50. It is planned for a new building being put up by Dr. Jack Patterson. Lots of luck, fellows.

CIVIC CENTRE: A.M. AM

Tomme is bucking the odds in chairing the committee to carry through the plan to build a civic centre around city hall, bounded by Government Street, Pandora, Douglas and Figgard. No criticism of Ald. Alf, but can anyone remember a major civic project of any kind that was carried through without mistakes, setbacks and just plain whiffing?

NUMBER SHOW:

Victoria's Junior Red Cross benefited by an unexpected $2.81 this week—proceeds from a home benefit show organized by five little maids from James Bay—Marlene Depina, 7, of 245 Michigan; Arlene Hurl, 6, of 246 Michigan; Joy Randall, 8, of 271 Michigan; Cathie Ingram, 9, of 271 Michigan; and Donna Wickett, 6, of 241 Montreal.

Soviet Bombs 'Clean'

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — There has been no radioactive fallout on Canada from current Russian nuclear tests on anything like the scale of last fall, officials said Thursday.

This has led to some speculation here that the Soviet Union has developed a "clean" bomb — that is, one from which there is little or no radioactive fall-out.

ENORMOUS YIELD

It is known that the Russian nuclear tests last fall were "cleaner" than previous Soviet tests. In the words of the scientists, there was 80 per cent cleanliness compared with 50 to 60 per cent cleanliness in Soviet tests which preceded the Russian broken moratorium of 1954-61.

The 80-per-cent cleanliness was on a total enormous yield of about 120 megatons, equivalent to 120,000,000 tons of TNT. In approximately 50 atmospheric tests.

CAUSE OUTCRY

The 20-per-cent dirtiness caused an outcry around the world, and Canada lodged two strong protests in the United Nations.

There have been eight known Soviet tests in the latest series but, officials said, there has been no marked increase in the level of short-lived radiation as there was last year, when the government kept the Canadian public posted almost day by day on the radiation count.

Neither has there been, officials said, any evidence of a rise in the radioactive iodine-131 count in fluid milk as has occurred in the United States mid-west.

Seaplane Hits Fishing Boat Seven Saved

CAMPBELL RIVER —

One man was hospitalized and six people were dumped into the icy water at the mouth of the Campbell River last night as a seaplane eased down for a landing and crashed into a small fishing boat.

In satisfactory condition in hospital here is George Woodworth, about 45, owner of the fishing boat. He suffered extensive leg cuts.

Witnesses said Mr. Woodworth and his three sons—Everett, Douglas and David—were on board the small craft as it chugged directly into the landing path of the airplane.

PILOT OF PLANE

Pilot of the Island Air Lines plane was John McNeill, Campbell River. His passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ragner of Seattle.

Impact of the crash caused only moderate damage to the boat, but the aircraft's floats were ripped off and the three on board were able to free themselves only seconds before the crippled machine sank in shallow water.

All three of Mr. Woodworth's sons were pitched into the water by the force of the collision. The mishap occurred just at dusk. RCMP are investigating.

Five Killed Four Live In Crash

SELDovia, Alaska (AP) — Five men were killed and four injured critically in the crash of a twin-engine amphibian Thursday near this Kenai Peninsula town.

The dead were among eight cannery workers being flown to Homer for connecting flights to Seattle.

The pilot was identified as William C. Decraft of Homer. He survived the crash along with Tore Hoven, 18; Bob Olson, 18; and Florentine Lamuge, about 48, of Hawaii.

Tugmen's Strike Threat to Island

By ED COBROVE

Threat of a coast-wide towboat strike which would idle more than 250 Victoria towboatmen and partially isolate Vancouver Island loomed today.

The first strike in the B.C. towboat industry in 31 years, its effect on Vancouver Island's economy would be serious.

Movement of deep-sea ships from port to port, berthing and the off-shore loading of lumber would be virtually at a standstill.

LOGGING CRIPPLED

Logging, construction and barge shipment of raw materials to and from Vancouver Island would also be crippled.

Main Island ports that would be affected by the strike would be Victoria, Nanaimo, Chemainus and Port Alberni, while similar tie-up would occur at Vancouver and New Westminster on the mainland.

Traffic of railway cars to the island would be cut as much as 30 per cent.

SEPT. 10 SET

Sept. 10 has been set as the strike deadline by the Marine Engineers Union and the Seamen, Cooks and Deckhands' Union, following rejection of a conciliation board report.

The two unions voted more than 85 per cent in favor of rejecting the report, which recommended a six-per-cent wage boost over three years. The unions are seeking a 10-per-cent wage hike over a two-year contract, plus job security benefits.

300 MEMBERS

The engineers' union has 300 members, 43 of them employed by Island Tug and Barge at Victoria.

Wet Bet Winds Up With Man in Drink

QUESNEL (CP) — A man made a bet with drinking pals that he could walk the narrow rail on the Quesnel bridge.

He lost the wager, fell 30 feet into the Fraser River and broke his ankle. Bystanders pulled him out of the water.

Kenneth Baker of Quesnel was later charged with intoxication.

Algerian Forces March on Capital

ALGIER (AP) — Regular Algerian army forces with Soviet and Chinese weapons rolled toward Algiers Thursday night under orders of Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella to subdue mutinous guerrillas controlling the capital.

Telephone reports received here said dust-covered columns of trucks pulling cannon were moving along three national highways.

HEAVY COLUMNS

Before the communication blackout, European settlers reported seeing heavy columns passing Charon and Vialar and Bourbaki after midnight. Both areas are about 150 miles from Algiers.

The soldiers' commander Col. Houari Boumedienne, was under orders of Ben Bella's political bureau for loyalist troops to re-establish order in the capital.

CALL THEM FASCIST

Guerrilla troops of the wilayas military zones 3 and 4 called on the population to resist Ben Bella's move for power which they called a Fascist dictatorship.

But despite heated appeals, at dusk, no visible efforts had been made to defend the capital.

French military sources said they doubted a major clash was imminent. Earlier both sides issued communiques that sounded as though civil war was near.

Algerian officials assured foreign diplomats that "everything will blow over."

Vote to Pick De Gaulle's Successor

PARIS (Reuters) — A referendum on the question of a successor to President de Gaulle will be held at the end of October, a government spokesman disclosed Thursday night.

He said the French people will be asked to agree to an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of the next president by universal suffrage.

The referendum was seen here as a move by de Gaulle to guard France against extremist attempts to seize power in the event of his assassination.

New Smallpox Scare Erupts in New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — Public health officials, alerted by a just-ended smallpox scare, temporarily quarantined more than 150 persons at Idlewild airport early today when at least one child aboard a jetliner from Brazil was discovered to have a rash.

A bus containing 15 passengers who arrived on the Pan American World Airways flight from Rio de Janeiro was turned around and sent back to the airport.

Nuncio Castiglione of Philadelphia said he was told by officials "one or more" of his three children was found to have an arm rash.

Cuba Unrest Alerts Troops

HAVANA (UPI) — Havana stirred with unexplained military activity last night. Some sources said troops and militiamen had been ordered to report to duty stations.

Sizable details of armed soldiers and militiamen stood guard in the city and rumors said "something is going on" in Camaguey or Oriente provinces.

'Fire One,' Says Judge

Case Blows Up In Wastebasket

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dewey Jones, 25, a machanic, was on trial Thursday for illegal possession of firecrackers.

The firecrackers were offered in evidence.

"I assume counsel will stipulate these are explosive," said the deputy district attorney, Gerald Regan.

But the defense lawyer, Tom Thurner, refused. Municipal Judge William Christensen ruled one firecracker should be shot off. Placing it in a wastebasket, Regan lit the fuse and stepped back. Nothing happened.

Regan shrugged and said, "Well, your honor, I guess we'll have to dismiss."

BANG!

When the smoke cleared, the jurors retired and half an hour later brought in a guilty verdict.

"What took you so long?" the judge asked.

He fined Jones $50.

Islanders to Learn If Tristan Livable

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — Twelve Tristan da Cunha islanders left South Africa Thursday to see if their people can again inhabit their lonely Atlantic home after 10 months absence.

The tiny community of 260 had to evacuate Tristan da Cunha, 1,750 miles west of Cape Town, last October when volcanic eruptions shook the island.

Mile for Each Year

Crowds Slow Birthday Hiker

TORONTO (CP) — A 71-year-old Toronto woman who celebrated her birthday with a marathon hike says she thinks she'll switch to a racetrack next year.

Mrs. Stella Johnston made the observation Thursday as she sat with her feet in southern water after a 71-mile trek from Vineland, Ont., to the Canadian National Exhibition here.

Mrs. Johnston said crowds along the route delayed her trip by several hours.

"I like to have them come out to see me, because their cheers help you on. But the talking and pulling wears you out, too."

"I think I'll try to do it on a racetrack next year."

Mrs. Johnston recalled that a man tried to pull her into a tavern along the route to give her refreshment.

A teetotaler and vegetarian, she wasn't having any.

Mrs. Johnston, a physical culture fan since her youth, began her birthday walks in 1959. She sets the mileage to match her age.

Oral 'Shots' Here Soon

Only One Case So Far

Polio Vaccines Prove Worth

With the first half of the annual peak polio season now past, provincial health officials report only one case of the paralytic form of the disease in B.C. in 1962, and they say the balance of the year looks promising.

Deputy health minister Dr. J. A. Taylor said yesterday about half of the province has been offered double immunization — Salk and Sabin vaccines — while the remaining half consisting of Vancouver Island and the lower mainland will be offered free Sabin doses in October.

He said the largest part of British Columbia's population has received Salk immunization but only the interior and the northern part of the province has received the newer Sabin oral vaccine.

Dr. Taylor said most of the Sabin vaccine clinics will be set up in provincial health units and at schools.

The oral vaccine, he added, is purported to offer more lasting protection than Salk injections, and he urged everybody — including those who have been Salk immunized — to obtain Sabin immunization.

Within a short time, the deputy minister predicted, Salk vaccine will be used in B.C. only for primary immunization of infants. He said it can be safely administered to the newborn after six weeks while the Sabin oral immunization is not usually administered before three months.

He said there were seven cases of paralytic polio in the province last year and all had been diagnosed prior to Aug. 30. But he pointed out both August and September are considered the polio peak months.
